Income Tax Exemption Slash Voted by Committee

Single Persons Would Pay on All Above $500

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Unexpectedly, the House Ways and Means Committee decided today to slash individual income tax exemptions to $500 for single and $1,200 for married persons in an effort to raise billions of dollars to finance the war effort.

By a vote of about 2 to 1, the members abandoned the present levels of $750 and $1,500. The action would bring millions of new taxpayers to the collection windows—starting with the single man who earns about $10 a week.

The committee coupled with the reduced exemptions retention of the earned income credit, which the Treasury Department had proposed to abolish. The lowered exemptions apply to both normal and surtaxes.

To Study Rates. Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, said the committee would proceed tomorrow to consider higher normal and surtax rates. Until the rates are determined there can be no estimate of what revenue the lowered personal credits would produce. The Treasury has asked for $3,400,000,000 more taxes from individuals.

Today's action brought closer to a decision the question whether a sales tax would be taken to the house for a vote.

Two proponents of that levy said that the dipping into the low income brackets probably would make strong arguments against a sales tax, which admittedly would fall hardest on the same workers.

"But, if we are going to raise $8,700,000,000, as the Treasury has suggested, we still will have to have a sales tax," one of them said.

Proposal Rejected. By a vote reported to have been 21 to 4, the committee also rejected the Treasury's proposal for elimination of the present oil depletion allowance in an attempt to raise $80,000,000. That provision permits oil and mine owners to charge off as a natural resource depletion allowance certain fixed percentages of their income. Coupled with that provision is an option to permit such companies to "expense" or capitalize intangible drilling or development costs.

After the committee members climaxed 10 days of work on the personal exemption question, the opinion prevailed that a final agreement on perhaps $2,500,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 in new individual taxes might be reached.

One member suggested that committee and Treasury statisticians would now be asked to submit estimates of how much three or four sets of normal and surtax rates would produce. Another said those experts would be asked to determine rates necessary to produce another $3,000,000,000.

Navy Cites Georgian As Manila Bay Hero

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Navy announced today that a Gold Star, equivalent to a second Navy Cross, had been awarded Lieutenant Commander Richard Ellington Hawes, 48, of Thomson, Ga., for heroism as commander of the minesweeper Pigeon during a heavy Japanese bombing attack on the Cavite, P. I., naval base last December.

Disclosure of the award included details of the Pigeon's heroic exploits throughout the weeks that the battle for Manila Bay was going on and until her final destruction by Japanese bombs at Corregidor. There was no personnel loss due to this last bombing and Hawes and the members of his crew are presumed to be prisoners of the Japanese.

Actual delivery of the decoration, therefore, cannot be made until after the war, the Navy said.

Hawes won his first Navy Cross in 1926 for his work in the salvaging of the submarine S-51 which had been sunk a year earlier after a collision with a surface ship off Block Island, R. I.

The specific action for which the Gold Star was awarded was the Pigeon's feat under Hawes' command in extricating a damaged submarine from the bombed and burning Cavite base—a "courageous, timely and strenuous action" without which the submarine would have been lost, the Navy said.

Text of Navy Announcement Describing Georgian's Valor

The text of the Navy announcement follows:

"A Gold Star to embellish the Navy Cross, which he already holds, has been awarded by the Navy to Lieutenant Commander Richard Ellington Hawes, of Thomson, Ga., who proved himself a hero 16 years ago and now, at the age of 48, has done it again.

"Aboard his little 180-footer, the minesweeper U. S. S. Pigeon, Lieutenant Commander Hawes and his crew plowed through the blastings of almost five months of bomb-laden Philippine war as they and their ship performed valorously the less spectacular but indispensable tasks assigned to those who form part of the Navy's auxiliary forces.

"From the start in Manila Bay to the finish on Corregidor, they were in the very thick of it—the Pigeon and her men—hauling grounded companion craft off mud bars, repairing their damage, replenishing their supplies, feeding their crews, restocking their ammunition, conducting them to the haven of the great 'Rock' that stands as its own monument in Manila Bay.

Japs Make Mistake of Flying Too Close to Pigeon

"And in between times they fiercely joined the fighting against the Japanese, bringing down several planes which made the mistake of flying too close to the Pigeon, failing to recognize her as a falcon at heart.

"With Corregidor fallen and the Pigeon sunk, as announced May 6 in communique No. 76, the Navy now tells the story of Lieutenant Commander Hawes' leadership and the manner in which he was followed literally to war's bitter end. On the bottom of the bay the remains of the Pigeon rest, bombed apart in the final hours before Corregidor's fall. Somewhere in the void which swallows up warriors who are out-numbered and overwhelmed are Lieutenant Commander Hawes and his men, presumably prisoners of the Japanese. The same communique that told of the Pigeon's finish said that, as far as was known, there were no casualties.

"It was on August 8, 1926, that the Navy first recognized and rewarded the heroism of Richard Hawes, then a boatswain who already was performing hazardous duties as a member of a submarine salvage crew.

"The U. S. submarine S-51 had gone down on September 25, 1925, after a collision with the S. S. City of Rome off Block Island, with the loss of six officers and 27 men. The following year S-51 was salvaged, and the work of Boatswain Hawes on that job won him not only the Navy Cross, but also an ensign's commission.

"Now, 16 years later, Lieutenant Commander Hawes wins the Gold Star, equivalent of a second Navy Cross, with

Jap Prisoners Riot in Canada, Wreck Rooms

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 13.—(AP)—Japanese under detention at the immigration building here staged a riotous demonstration today, smashing windows on the upper floor on which they are held and turning a fire hose on people in the street below.

Chunks of plaster torn from the walls of their quarters and an iron grating were thrown into the street, the Japanese meanwhile shouting so loud that they could be heard several hundred yards away. Japanese women stood near by and waved to them.

All was quiet early tonight. Immigration authorities declined comment. The affair was in the hands of military authorities.

Fraud in Gas Cards Will Be Prosecuted

The barbed term "gas hog" took its place in the lexicon of the average easterner yesterday to describe that variety of the motoring species who insists on getting a larger government gasoline ration than he legitimately needs.

With its advent came the prompt threat of criminal prosecution for fraud by rationing officials, who viewed with dismay increasing evidence that a lot of citizens with no plausible reasons had argued themselves into "X" cards granting them unlimited quantities of fuel.

A school official at Springfield, Mass., noting the preponderance of applications for B-3 cards, which grant a liberal supply, expressed his feelings in the matter by saying:

"Rationing is producing a nation of liars."

Card Investigation. Lee S. Buckingham, acting rationing administrator for New York city, announced that all rationing cards would be investigated there at the conclusion of the three-day registration period ending tomorrow to determine whether any had been obtained through misrepresentations.

The Albany (N. Y.) war council directed that all "X" cards be checked by police when registration is over. The United States attorney at Boston said he would prosecute "100 per cent" every gasoline chisel found.

Accurate figures on the progress of registration were not available.

Conscience Sufferers.

Similar breakdowns into specific classifications were not immediately available from many cities.

There was a bright spot for any suffering from twinges of conscience. Price Administrator Leon Henderson noted that any who had taken out an "X" card under an "erroneous or mistaken" impression could return it and apply for a card in the proper class.

Even congress found the situation disturbing particularly as it affected trips back home to see constituents. Henderson expressed belief that a congressman's use of a car to transact business with a government agency was official.

13 Nazi Troop Planes Shot Down by RAF

CAIRO, Egypt, May 13.—(AP)—The north African theater sprang into brief prominence again today with an RAF announcement that British fighters had shot down 13 German Junker planes of the troop-carrying type, along with two escorting German Messerschmitt craft.

This was accomplished yesterday, at the loss of a single British plane, in the interception of an enemy formation of unstated size, and it was added that aside from the 15 enemy planes known to have been destroyed others probably were knocked out.

In which direction the Nazi formation was flying was not mentioned.

200,000 Tons Of Subs Ordered

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Construction of 200,000 tons more of submarines in a move to beat the Axis at its own game was authorized today by a bill signed into law by President Roosevelt.

Just how many more submarines the measure will add to the nation's expanding fleet is a military secret, but Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the House Naval Committee, has said that it would provide for "more than 100."

Atlanta Women 'Rarin' To Join Army

ARMY SWEATER GIRLS—If Mr. Roosevelt signs the Women's Army Auxiliary bill, then he can just as well count on sweater girls in the Army, scores of them, for they want their place. Mrs. Hugh Agricola Jr. reads the news.

Dixie's Belles Anxious To Take Part in Winning War.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.

The land of cotton blossoms and chivalry breeds its fightin' women, too.

Nine out of every 10 Atlanta women—some with fightin' blood hotter'n the Martins' and the Coys'—are ready to volunteer for Army service.

When Atlanta women read yesterday morning that the bill creating a Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, to permit 150,000 women volunteers to serve in noncombatant capacity with the troops at home and abroad, awaited only President Roosevelt's signature, they said:

"Sign it. We're ready. We'll volunteer in a minute."

Run True to Form. The girls simply backed up the old tradition of the south's great fighters. Since Dixie always has been the home of the to-the-core scrappers, the old idea ran true to form—yes, the fairer sex is just as hotheaded.

Those girls who will leave office jobs, or homes, or selling careers to go with Uncle Sam have an idea the fightin' men never thought of, however, for they have somebody in "there" they want to fight alongside—maybe a husband, maybe a brother, probably a sweetheart.

And the reason why this pugnacious yen hasn't shown up sooner is that this present generation never has lost "him" so completely before.

Soviets Deny Germans Took 40,000 Captives

MOSCOW, Thursday, May 14.—(AP)—The Russians acknowledged early today that they had fallen back to new positions on the Kerch peninsula, in the Crimea, in the face of attack by superior numbers of Nazis, but they denied German claims that the battle had been concluded.

In the vicinity of Kharkov, approximately 300 miles north of the Crimean battlefield, the Russians under Marshal Semion Timoshenko were engaged in a mounting offensive against the Germans, and there the Red army forces were "successfully advancing," according to the midnight Soviet communique.

The Germans claimed they had 2,000,000 crack troops poised for a grand offensive toward the Caucasus.

(American and British tanks lumbered into action against Nazi mechanized monsters as the fighting raged to a tremendous pitch, International News Service learned. The Soviet Black sea fleet steamed near shore to send thunderous salvos crashing into the advancing Germans.)

Third Battle Area.

A possibility that a third important sector of the front may be opened by the Germans soon, perhaps as part of a general offensive, was seen in a brief Moscow radio report that the huge total of 229 German transport planes and 37 fighters were destroyed in the past few days in the region about Smolensk, south of Leningrad and northwest of Moscow, long a bitterly contested area.

The presence of so many German transport planes indicated a further Nazi attempt to bolster the reportedly trapped 18th German army south of Lake Timan. (The Nazis recently claimed they had cut a ground corridor through to that army.)

The Crimean front, meanwhile, continued to rock with battle. "Fierce fighting still is going on," said today's communique. The text read:

"During May 13 our troops, opposing numerically superior forces of Germans, retired to new positions."

The German communique claim that the battle of Kerch resulted in a German success and that they captured many tanks and guns and took a large number of prisoners is nothing but a lie. "Our troops are retiring in good order and inflicting heavy losses on the attackers."

Reds on Offensive. "In the Kharkov direction of the front (in the Donets basin) our troops took the offensive and are successfully advancing."

"On other sectors of the front nothing of significance took place. On May 12, 43 German planes were destroyed. Our losses were 17. Soviet ships in the Barents sea sank an enemy transport of 12,000 tons."

(The German high command yesterday claimed that 40,000 Red troops had been captured, and the battle was decided at the approaches to Kerch which with the narrow isthmus of the same name bars the way, to a jump into the Caucasian oil fields. The Nazis also claimed the "annihilation of enemy forces which have been overrun and encircled there.")

A supplementary Russian communique said:

"During May 12 our air units destroyed 32 German tanks, 320 motor vehicles with troops and supplies, 108 cars with supplies, 48 field and anti-aircraft guns, 10 mortars, eight anti-aircraft and machinegun firing positions, smashed a railway train and six platform cars with trucks, dispersed and partly annihilated an enemy regiment."

The destruction of 43 more Nazi planes raised the announced toll to 145 since Sunday, and President Roosevelt's signature, they said:

"Sign it. We're ready. We'll volunteer in a minute."

Run True to Form. The girls simply backed up the old tradition of the south's great fighters. Since Dixie always has been the home of the to-the-core scrappers, the old idea ran true to form—yes, the fairer sex is just as hotheaded.

500,000-to-1 Swap 'Astonishes' Nazis

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—Reuters reported today in dispatch dated "on the German frontier" that General Henri Honore Giraud, French military leader who escaped from the strong German Koenigstein fortress, has offered to return there in exchange for release of 500,000 French prisoners-of-war.

Giraud's offer was said to have been made to General Otto von Stuepnagel, German military administrator for occupied France, in a meeting arranged at the instigation of French Chief of Government Pierre Laval.

Von Stuepnagel was astonished, the sources of this story said, and ended the conversation "abruptly."

Sugar Millions Of U.S. to Bring Boom for Cuba

More Than $150,000,000 Begins Flowing to Island Millers.

HAVANA, May 13.—(AP)—Sugar money—more than $150,000,000 of it—began flowing to mill owners today as funds were advanced by the Defense Supplies Corporation of the United States for sugar now in warehouses.

Business observers predicted the release of the funds, which some said might run as high as $200,000,000, would create a business boom in Cuba.

The Defense Supplies Corporation bought the entire 1942 export sugar crop of Cuba. The money represents interest-free loans the corporation agreed to make in exchange for an arrangement whereby the mills would supply a greater amount of raw sugar, and a smaller percentage of molasses, than had been agreed upon originally.

The loans may be made up to 90 per cent of the value of sugar in warehouses. The grinding season is nearing an end.

But, while business men expected a boom to result from the release of the loans, in other quarters it was said that warborne problems made the future outlook for sugar very uncertain.

The government made known its concern at rumors that some planters were planning increases in 1943 production by warning that conditions made such plans "unjustified."

In even sterner language, sugar associations said the future outlook for sugar was so confused as to make any crop increase plan a dangerous speculative venture.

The government emphasized that the ship shortage had already begun to cut down imports of foodstuffs. It urged Cubans to diversify their farm acreage to help take up the slack. Cuba imports great amounts of foodstuffs, particularly dried beans, rice, fresh and canned vegetables, and fresh and canned fruits.

Former Atlanta Nurse Killed In Auto Wreck

Newman Injured After Car Strikes, Kills Pedestrian.

Miss Helen Montez Ray, 23, a nurse at Veterans' Hospital here until entering the Army as a second lieutenant in March, was killed late Tuesday night near Lewisburg, Tenn., shortly after the automobile in which she was riding struck and fatally injured a 25-year-old infantile paralysis victim, Sheriff Will Ogilvie, of Bedford county, reported.

Sheriff Ogilvie said the driver of the automobile was Thomas W. Bynum, 25, Atlanta newspaperman, who was injured and taken to a Lewisburg hospital. Ogilvie said the car driven by Bynum struck August Balingier, who, apparently, in his haste to return to the scene of the accident, Bynum overturned his machine.

Friends said Bynum and Miss Ray had been to Lewisburg to visit Miss Ray's sister, who was seriously ill. They were returning to Camp Forrest, where she was stationed, at the time of the tragedy.

A native of Lewisburg, Miss Ray trained at Knoxville General hospital and was at the Veterans' hospital for 18 months before entering the Army.

Bynum, a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, has been with International News Service here for about a year. A native of Blakely, he previously was connected with the Albany Herald and the LaGrange Daily News. He resides at the Clermont hotel.

Baseball Game Ends in Tie And Halts Suicide Attempt

SEATTLE, May 13.—(AP)—Police credit an extraordinary baseball game with halting a suicide attempt by a 30-year-old housewife.

Two patrolmen, called to the woman's residence last night by neighbors, reported she turned on the gas while listening to a broadcast of the Seattle-Los Angeles Coast League game.

In the eleventh inning she became so interested she turned off the gas and by the time the game ended in a 5-5 tie four innings later she had changed her mind.

House Sticks to $50 Pay Scale For Men in Army, Navy Ranks

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—The House stuck to its $50 monthly scale for men in the lowest ranks in the Army-Navy pay raise bill today but indications were that the final figure would be $42.

With house approval, given with one dissenting vote, the measure now goes to conference to bring it into conformity with the rates approved by the senate. The senate bill calls for $42 and leaders said the plan was to adhere to that figure.

The house yesterday increased the amount to $50, adopting an amendment by Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, who said such action might avoid a bonus fight after the war. A roll call vote of 331 to 28 today ratified yesterday's action. The measure then was passed with only Representative Disney, Democrat, Oklahoma, voting against it.

A private now receives $21 monthly for the first four months,

$30 for the next eight and $40 monthly after a year's service, while an apprentice seaman gets $30. The bill, under present conference plans, would increase all these rates to $42.

It also provides increases for all grades of enlisted men.

With the same increases for equivalent naval grades, first-class privates now receiving $36 would be raised to $48 by the senate bill and $54 by the house bill. Corporals now receiving $54 would be paid $66 under both measures.

Sergeants and petty officers now paid $60, $72, $84 and $126, depending upon their grade, would be paid $78, $96 and $114 and $138. Second lieutenants and ensigns would be raised from $125 to $150, with simultaneous increases in their rental and food allowances. Representative Brooks, Democrat, Louisiana, inserted in the Congressional Record figures showing that under the bill, the American soldier and bluejacket would be the second best paid in the world. Australian rates, alone, are higher, he said.

THAT'S WHY ALL SOUTHERN BREAD IS "Enriched"!

★ America must be strong! America must be well nourished—with healthy bodies and steady nerves to better do the job that lies before us and win the victory for ourselves and our loved ones. That's why so few projects in recent years have been so widely supported by so many U. S. It's a proven fact that we all need to get more nutrition out of our food. The Bakers of Southern Bread realized this eight years ago and they were the first bakers in Dixie to introduce Bread enriched with vitamins. This important trend has been steadily growing.

Recently Government Agencies recommended ENRICHED bread as a powerful aid because it helps supply extra vitamins and minerals needed for proper nourishment. In quick cooperation with our Government the bakers of Southern Bread are now making not one—but three different ENRICHED loaves. And each loaf is immediately identified by the brand name "Southern" and the word "ENRICHED" on every wrapper. Look for them on every loaf you buy.

SOUTHERN ENRICHED BREAD IS A BASIC VICTORY FOOD

Pope in Peace Plea But Sees Little Hope

'Anti-Christian Methods' of Some Leaders Under Fire.

VATICAN CITY (From Vatican Broadcasts), May 13.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII appealed to the world's leaders today to conclude a peace "on principles of justice and moderation even if it does not seem to correspond to aspirations," but he acknowledged that "there is no immediate hope of peace."

He addressed his peace appeal "with impartiality to all belligerents and with equal affection for all sections of all peoples." But in an earlier section of his address the Pope attacked the anti-Christian methods of the leaders of "some countries" who are "bent on replacing right by force."

The pontiff, speaking on the 25th anniversary of his consecration as a bishop and on the eve of the Feast of the Ascension, was addressing the world by radio. He spoke, he said, while "people are living in painful anxiety, awaiting imminent military operations" and anticipating "the menace of greater destructive weapons."

State of Things. But, he said, "we well know how in the state of things today there would be little probability of success in formulating detailed proposals for a just and honorable peace."

"While one side bases its hopes on results achieved," he observed, "the other side bases its hopes on the outcome of future events."

In his remarks attacking the foes of Christianity the Pope said: "Today in some countries those in authority bent on replacing right by force triumph against Christians the same infringements of law which the Caesars of the first century pretended to have found in Peter and Paul and a countless line of innocent victims who are now effulgent with a halo of virtues."

"The crime trumped up against Christians is always the same—their unflinching loyalty to the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords."

The pontiff opened his remarks on peace by recalling that he always had worked for peace. "But now," he said, "that people are living in painful anxiety, awaiting imminent military operations, we take the opportunity of offering you by today's anniversary to pronounce once again a word of peace."

No Immediate Hope. "While there is no immediate hope of peace, the destruction caused by war is forever accumulating. We make this appeal today with greater insistence in view of the menace of greater destructive weapons."

"The present political situation, with its ravages of moral and material values, with cruelty of unprecedented violence, will hardly allow of such an offer being accepted."

"There certainly exists a social solution so that the wealth of nations can by public administration be distributed in such a way as to promote life and not death."

Arnold Explains

Delay of G.E. Suits

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold told the Senate Patents Committee today that the Department of Justice had bowed to the War Department in agreeing to postpone trial of two antitrust suits against the General Electric Company.

The suits, one involving the manufacture and sale of electric light bulbs, the other of tungsten carbide used in making cutting tools, were postponed last month after the War Department took the stand that calling officials for testimony would interfere with the war effort.

Arnold said he was "utterly unable" to see why company officials would have to be away from their work any appreciable time because of the trials.

Nervous, Ankles Swollen, Backache, Kidneys Strained?

If you're feeling out of sorts, Get Up Nightly or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Cold, wetting, overeating, or overdrinking may create an excess of acids and overload the kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids. Nature provides the kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess acids. The kidneys contain about nine million tiny pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded. Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisonous and irritating. 2. To soothe burning and stinging of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if (The Berlin radio broadcast a Vichy dispatch in which it said the United States also had demanded that Vichy turn over a number of French merchant ships now in Caribbean ports, but that France would refuse this request because her armistice with Germany forbids such a transaction.) Germany has forbidden Vichy to part with 140,000 tons of merchant shipping in French Martinique, and has given orders to "scuttle the ships if necessary," the Daily Mail said in a dispatch dated on the French frontier.

"American demands aimed at neutralizing Martinique are believed to include the disarming of warships," the dispatch said. "American garrisons also are to be stationed at strategic points in the islands."

There was no indication in the communiqué as to what Vichy has told the United States, although it was stated that the American representations, (made in an endeavor to positively neutralize the French Caribbean island area), gave rise to "grave questions."

(In Bern, Switzerland, the confused political maneuvers which have been going on in Vichy and Paris between Laval on the one hand and high German representatives on the other were intercepted in some quarters as indicating the Vichy chief of government has struck new obstacles in his program of full French-German military collaboration.)

Today's communiqué said Laval, before replying to the U. S. note, had conferred with Marshal Petain, the chief of state, with Admiral of the Fleet Francois Darlan, chief of armed forces, and with his naval and colonial secretaries.

The announcement also said the American communication had been transmitted to Vichy through the intermediary of the Martinique high commissioner, Admiral Georges Robert. (Washington has taken the position that its communications were directed only to Robert, and not to Vichy. No Vichy communication has reached Washington.)

Atlantan on Duty In West Indies

The island of Curacao, in the Netherlands West Indies, provides many interesting places and peoples, but the weather is "hot as blazes."

Those are the observations of Private Harold Loveless, 23-year-old son of Mrs. John M. Loveless, 1161 Ponce de Leon avenue, who is on duty in the Dutch Caribbean possession with the U. S. Army Air Corps. Private Loveless serves as a meteorologist.

In a letter to his mother Private Loveless related many interesting experiences he has had with the natives of the island, but complained that the weather is always the same—hot.

Young Loveless has been on duty in the West Indies since January. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps directly after graduation from Emory University in June of last year.

Tomorrow Is Deadline For City Tax Discount

Tomorrow is the last day on which Atlantans may pay their 1942 city taxes and receive a 2 percent discount allowed for prompt payment, Charles Mathews, city tax collector, warned yesterday.

Cash payments must be made by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but let-ter in enclosing checks will be credited if they are postmarked before midnight tomorrow night.

Mathews said his office is at least a day behind in checking the mails because of the rush at the windows, but said he expected some figures on collections will be available early next week.

Chiang Leads Veteran Force Against Japs

Nipponese Troops Push Deeper Into Yunnan Province.

LONDON, May 13.—(P)—Veterans of the China wars under the personal direction of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek braced their lines tonight against a reinforced Japanese penetration of their soil while isolated, exhausted Chinese and British forces held stubbornly to the last few bits of Burma.

After suffering a temporary but bloody setback, the Japanese advance guard on the Burma road was reported in a Chinese communique from Chungking to have penetrated at least 50 miles inside China's backyard at Lungling and to have pushed on toward Paoshan, 50 miles deeper inside Yunnan province. The major objective of this drive supposedly is Kunming, capital of the province, and China terminus of the true Burma road.

A Chungking spokesman said, however, that the Japanese in the Lungling area had made no progress since yesterday, and expressed the opinion that they might not try to advance farther because of the heavy casualties they have suffered in Yunnan province.

While Chiang's seasoned troops fought this new incursion, other by-passed units of American General Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese expeditionary force were slashing at the enemy's thinly guarded communication lines in northern Burma.

The Chinese high command said Chinese units had disrupted Japanese communications between the Mandalay-Lashio area and Bhamo and Myitkyna to the north.

However, Chungking disclosed that the Japanese had opened up a new front by advancing northward up the Mekong river from Thailand into the Burma-Thailand-French Indo-China border region and have occupied the town of Hongluk. Then they pressed on toward Mongko where the Chinese engaged them.

The communique reported also that another Japanese column was battling the Chinese at Kongkum on the Salween river, but these actions were said to have taken place late last week.

OFFENSIVE LOOMS—London sources regard the German drive on Kerch as the first move of a grand three-way offensive in which 2,000,000 Nazis would try to conquer the oil-rich Caucasus by attacking in force southeast from Khar'kov (1), throwing another army from Taganrog to Rostov (2), and taking the Caucasus defenses of Rostov from the rear after smashing Russian resistance on the Kerch peninsula (3).

Germans Mass Huge Force for Push in Crimea

Probably most of those downed were operating as a covering and dive-bombing force for General von Manstein's tank and infantry troops pounding the Russians along a 12-mile line between the Black and Azov seas on the Kerch peninsula.

The Soviet communique implied that the preliminary Red dugouts and concrete emplacements along the neck of that peninsula had been overrun, but gave no indication of the depth of the German penetration.

Lieutenant General D. T. Kozlov's Red troops in the area have their backs to the Kerch straits, supported by a reservoir of troops on the Caucasian mainland four or more miles to the east. Presumably most of the Red air bases also are on Caucasian soil.

Khar'kov, the scene of the announced Russian offensive, is 230 miles northwest of Taganrog, the southern Nazi anchor on the mainland across the sea of Azov from Kerch. The big industrial city has been held by the Germans all winter despite constant Red attempts to retake it.

House Votes To Boost Appointments to Point

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(P)—The house voted today to give each senator and representative another appointment to the Military Academy at West Point, but turned down another provision of the bill authorizing the Secretary of War to fill vacancies remaining for any reason at the beginning of the academic year.

The bill, which goes to the senate, would increase the present authorized strength of 1,960 by 536.

In late broadcasts the Germans claimed they already had reached the Sea of Azov in a northeasterly penetration of Russian Crimean defenses, cut Red army communications from the rear, destroyed or damaged a Soviet evacuation fleet and destroyed 183 Red planes in combat.

Battle for Kerch.
As for Kerch itself, where German troops under General Fritz Erich von Manstein have been smashing for five days at the Russian army of Lieutenant General D. T. Kozlov, competent London informants said "the key to the situation is in the air."

"If the Germans can control the air they can keep the Russian Black Sea fleet away, smash resistance on the peninsula and prepare to jump the strait to take the Caucasus defenses of Rostov from the rear," one source said.

But, he added, if the Russians could maintain air parity there was little likelihood of outstanding German success even if Kerch, at the eastern end of the peninsula, were taken, for then the Germans would not be able to negotiate the few miles across the strait.

In contrast to today's German high command claims, the Russians merely let it be known that the battle was developing steadily but said that "nothing of significance took place" anywhere on the front.

Moscow dispatches indicated, indeed, that comparatively few units were engaged on the restricted front across the Kerch peninsula, which measures only about 10 miles at the narrowest point.

Scant military advice reaching the Soviet capital from the Crimean front mentioned only the intensification of German air raids—said by Berlin to involve the most planes ever concentrated over so small an area—and told of Russian aerial assaults against motorized enemy columns moving along the roads.

Autoist Returns 45-Gallon Card

Region OPA officials said this problem came up only once during the first two days of gasoline rationing registration.

A registrar called to ask if it were possible to exchange a 45-gallon B-2 card for a basic A card. The ruling was affirmative.

So now W. R. Little, an Atlanta carpenter, can only purchase 21 gallons of gasoline. He explained that he asked the B card when he thought a certain job would require him to do more traveling, but decided to return it when he found out he would have no need for so much gasoline.

Slight Error! Jury Box Yields Name of Woman

The name of a woman was drawn from the Fulton county jury box yesterday. It was that of Mrs. Clarchen Karston, of 650 Killian street, N. E., widow of Carl Karston, former deputy clerk of the superior court.

There is no provision for women jurors under Georgia law. Mrs. Karston's name got in the box by mistake. She will be excused.

British Expect Early Battle With Tirpitz

Failure of Nazis To Cut Supply Lines Seen as Cause for Sally.

By DREW MIDDLETON.

LONDON, May 13.—(P)—Hitler's 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz may lead the German battle squadron out of Trondheim at any time and the ensuing battle with British and Allied heavy warships will be the "largest naval engagement of the war in Europe," an informed source said today.

The almost continuous battle of the Arctic, where the Germans are trying to close the northern supply route to Russia, has been intensified lately as lengthening days give German aircraft more time for reconnaissance, and the southward drift of polar ice narrows the passage to the Soviet ports.

The Germans claimed today that bombers sank an 8,000-ton freighter and a small coaster and damaged four large transports in the latest engagement along Norway's arctic coast and in the harbor at Murmansk.

The British say Hitler is failing to destroy the British convoys with his light forces, submarines and airplanes, however, and that Admiral Erich Raeder will be forced to use his only battleship that is known to be whole, the Tirpitz, plus the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, and the cruiser Hipper, both also at Trondheim, against some future convoy.

"When he does the Allied squadrons will be waiting. The Germans will be extremely lucky if they get a single large ship back to port," an informed source declared.

'Twilight Zone' Is Eliminated

Gasoline rationing will present little hardship to Georgians living near enough the Alabama and Tennessee borders to drive over and get their tanks filled up, it appeared last night from a Washington announcement that the 50-mile "twilight zone" had been eliminated.

The 50-mile zone along the western fringe of the gasoline rationing area originally was established to prevent persons living in the rationing states from driving across the border for unlimited gasoline supplies.

The Office of Price Administration's weekend decision to exempt 93 counties in several of the rationing states appeared likely to complicate the administration of the order, officials said yesterday, to such an extent that it was decided to abandon the entire "twilight zone."

Father Baptizes Daughter Here

A father and his little eight-year-old daughter paused last night in a world torn by grief and strife and paid their tributes to God. The father then read to his daughter passages of Scripture on baptism, after which they stepped into the pool of the Inman Park Baptist church, where the father baptized his daughter.

The little girl was Mary Lu Burton, of 1451 North avenue, N. E., while her father is Rev. Joe W. Burton, secretary of education of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board. Special permission for the father to immerse his daughter was granted by members of the church and the Rev. S. F. Lowe, pastor.

Only immediate members of the child's family and a few friends attended the ceremony.

Importers Say There'll Be No Spice Shortage

Foresight of Traders Given Credit for Ample Supplies.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(P)—To women who take pride in their cookery—be comforted, spices are safe for the duration.

Spice importers attending the American Spice Trade Association convention at the Hotel Astor today said that most important spices, except pepper and cinnamon, now are grown in this hemisphere. And of pepper and cinnamon, both imported almost exclusively from the Netherlands East Indies, we have a sufficient quantity in storage to last for several years.

It's true the War Production Board has fixed quotas on eight spices at from 50 to 75 per cent of the supply, but this should not affect housewives who require only a few ounces of any given spice in a year. It will affect canners, the makers of catsup, chili, soups.

The comparatively happy situation in spices is due to the foresight of several men in the business.

For example, John A. Sokol, of Chicago, toured South America, flying some 25,000 miles within the past two years, to stimulate the growing of herbs and spices in this hemisphere.

Sage, thyme, marjoram, nutmeg, basil—all can be grown successfully in South America, Sokol says.

He also is sponsoring the growth of poppies for the sake of spicy poppy seeds in this country. "I'm always getting into arguments about my poppies," he said today. "People insist on regarding them as a venture into the narcotic trade."

Seeds Full of Vitamins.
"The fact is the blue poppy seed contains no opium and the plant itself contains so little as to be commercially useless. The seeds are full of vitamins and deliciousness when used in rolls and pastries."

John Frank, of Cincinnati, is credited by his spice colleagues with the establishment of a paprika industry in this country. Frank admits he smuggled enough paprika seed out of Yugoslavia to start growing the plant in a small way. This year Louisiana paprika farms will yield approximately a million pounds of paprika, Frank said.

The spice men's convention banquet tonight was no chicken-a-laking with peas affair, but boasted such delicately spiced tidbits as onion tart with dill seeds, con-somme with sorrel, and supreme of guinea hen a la Colbert with butter-mustard sauce.

Maritime Lads Are America's Unsung Heroes

Recruiter Says Service Offers Adventure and Good Pay.

By AL SHARP.

The freighter groaned as the sea hit her and sent her bow dripping froth. The young seaman, standing the forward watch, peered into the night.

He saw nothing. He could do nothing except watch, hoping that if a submarine lurked in his part of the Atlantic he would spot it in time to save the ship.

He and the others are the men who are fighting more than their share of the war. They are the unglorified, the underpublicized leaders of the battle both at home and abroad.

They are the men, that seaman and the others, whom Uncle Sam needs if victory is to be ours.

Without the guns and the tanks and the planes they deliver, the Army and the Navy could do little. That's why the United States Maritime Service, which has offices at 229 Peachtree Arcade, is eager to make young men into seamen. The seamen for the Merchant Marine are the men behind the guns, Chief Yeoman Walter Lotz, enrolling officer, points out.

"There's adventure and good pay—about $200 a month after the three-month course at St. Petersburg," Lotz said.

There's not a lot of raw courage to it, one learns by listening to him. But it does take courage of a type few understand. It takes the courage to watch and wait, to wait and watch, as if you were sitting on a time bomb and don't know what time it will go off.

That's the courage it takes. And it will take a lot of men with that courage to get the tanks and the guns and the planes into action.

It takes a lot of both courage and men to get the fuel oil and gasoline through.

So the Maritime Service continues to sign up men—real men, heroes without all the trimmings.

STEP RIGHT UP, BOYS, YOU ARE NEEDED—Show girls were doing yeoman's duty at the United States Maritime Service recruiting office yesterday. And, as you can see, they were doing all right. The cute gals in the cute suits are Collette (Violet DuPont) and Barry (Juanet Parham), of the "First Little Show," now at the Paradise room.

Atlanta, Fulton Schools Rushed By Registration

40,000 Expected To Have Gas Cards by End of Today.

School teacher registrars and the gas-seeking public hit their stride in the issuance of gasoline ration cards yesterday as they prepared to wind up today the job of equipping 94,000 Fulton county and Atlanta citizens with the little cards necessary to keep the family bus rolling.

City and county school officials announced last night that registration had been both heavier and smoother than the preceding day when it was launched amid confusion in the minds of both those getting and those giving out the ration cards.

At the close of schools this afternoon and tonight teachers are expected to have completed their tasks, with the exception of motorists with peculiar difficulties and problems and those already prepared to appeal their cases to their local boards. An estimated 10,000 persons received their cards in the county schools the first day and School Superintendent Jere A. Wells anticipated that between 35,000 and 40,000 drivers of passenger cars would have them before the end of today.

All schools will remain open as late as necessary to take care of the registrants but officials are hopeful that the schedules prevail yesterday and Tuesday would be

Hendersons Get Two 'A' Gas Cards

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Leon Henderson, wife of the price administrator, obtained two "A" gasoline rationing cards today, entitling the family's two automobiles to 21 gallons each for the 47-day temporary rationing period.

The Hendersons own a second-hand Buick and a second-hand Plymouth and live 2.9 miles from his office—just one-tenth of a mile too close to allow the price administrator to obtain a B-1 card.

sufficient. City schools are open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and county schools are open from 3 p. m. to 7 p. m.

B-2 Cards Exhausted. Local rationing officials ran out of B-2 cards, which allow the owner 45 gallons of gas for the seven weeks, yesterday but they announced that A cards would be issued instead as a "temporary expedient." Holders of the A cards who feel they should have B-2 cards may apply to their local rationing board next week.

OPA officials said B cards were exhausted generally throughout the five-state region but the shortage came quicker in North Carolina, where there are more defense workers than Washington had counted on. Atlanta had a supply of 18,000 B-2 cards but Superintendent M. E. Coleman said the fact that his office had no more to send out did not mean that all the schools had exhausted their supplies of the cards, which entitle the motorist to more gas.

Many Seek X Cards. Applicants for X cards were still besieged teachers but authorities emphasized they could only be issued to persons qualified for an unlimited supply of gasoline, doctors, nurses, professional social workers and cars and trucks bearing commercial licenses.

Traveling salesmen here continued yesterday to be concerned over their inability to get X cards, which allow an unlimited supply of gasoline. But a Washington duling requires them to have B cards and supplements, if needed, with the X cards limited to definite classes of other drivers.

Meanwhile, T. M. Forbes, Georgia rationing administrator, declared the gasoline registration was not functioning as efficiently as the sugar program because insufficient time had been allowed to prepare for it.

Printing Delay. "There was considerable delay in Washington in printing the instructions and this caused further inconvenience," he said.

Forbes asked Georgians who might be on the border line between B-3 and X cards to accept the B allotment at the school and later ask his board to consider the case. He said teachers did not have time to decide each case.

At the state capitol here, motorists stood in long lines throughout the day waiting to get duplicate motor vehicle registration cards because they had lost the ones they received with their license plates.

These are required to register for a gasoline allotment and in the case of motorists who were unable to come here to obtain a duplicate, sheriffs or superior court clerks were expected to issue temporary certificates.

business and hence entitled him to a ration sufficient to cover that. But he did not touch on the trips-back-home subject.

Many members of congress already had obtained "X" cards, although Senator Downey, Democrat, California, said he would ask senators to waive any "special rights" they might have to more liberal rationing.

At Syracuse, N. Y., the rationing board reported some persons had turned back "X" cards voluntarily.

Congressmen In Dither Over 'X' Gas Cards

Many Registered for Unlimited Supply for Trips Back Home.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Gasoline rationing today had congress in a dither the like of which has not been seen since the lawmakers voted—but later repealed—pensions for themselves.

Registering at their special facilities in the capitol, many had asked and received "X" cards. An X card entitles the holder to yawn and tell the gas-pump man to "fill her up."

The voting public might gain a vivid picture of its representatives at the capital exercising the privileges of an unlimited gasoline supply. In the east, that voting public is strictly rationed on gasoline. And the country over, wartime self-sacrifice is popular.

Distinctly not among these, however, was Senator Downey, Democrat, California. He keeps no car in Washington. He announced he would ask the senate to vote tomorrow on a resolution of self-abnegation in which it would forego the use of gasoline or any other rationed commodity in amounts greater than those allowed to the general public.

Representative Rich, Republican, Pennsylvania, was not a member of the jitters bloc, either. He has announced he will not run for re-election. He has an X card, he said, but will try to conserve gasoline in every way.

Representative Faddis, Democrat, Pennsylvania, had an X card, he said, and "no apologies to make for it."

Trips Back Home. "I'm not yet ready to admit that any bureaucrat downtown, or any newspaper for that matter," he declared, "has any authority to tell a congressman what his duties are or how he should conduct them."

He said it was part of a congressman's duties to go back home and sample public sentiment, to visit Army camps and see how the war effort is coming along. He is entitled, he said, to the gasoline for doing so.

The X cards were issued the congressmen without question upon their representations that "all or substantially all" of the use of their cars was on "official business." Faddis and others who discussed the situation on the floor maintained that trips back home to interview their constituents and trips around Washington on errands for constituents constituted official business.

Official Business. Price Administrator Leon Henderson issued a statement late in the day which said nothing about the trips back home but rendered the opinion that "the use of a car by a member of congress or any other federal or state employee in order to transact business with a government agency is official business."

The statement added that "use of a car by any federal or state employee for driving to and from his work entitled such a person to an appropriate A or B card." It also suggested that anybody who received an X card under "an erroneous or mistaken interpretation of the intent of the regulation" could return it and get a "proper" card.

Chief To Make Cases Against Gas Hoarders

Reports Piling Up at Styron Office on Illegal Storage.

Gas hoarding reports were piling up last night at his office, Fire Chief C. C. Styron reported.

"Firemen today will begin investigating these reports, and will make cases wherever they find gasoline illegally stored," Chief Styron said.

Fire inspectors Tuesday night, in two raids, found several hundred gallons of gasoline illegally stored in garages.

The largest cache of gasoline, six 55-gallon drums, had been stored in a northside garage preparatory to being removed to a construction job near Dahlonega. The fire inspectors ordered the owner to immediately move the gas outside the city limits, while in the other instance, a barrel containing 55 gallons of gas, was ordered taken to a service station and placed in an underground storage tank.

"Hoarding of gasoline is extremely dangerous," Chief Styron said last night. "It is a distinct violation of the city laws for a person to have more than one gallon of gasoline stored in his home or garage unless the gas is in an underground tank. Storage of excessive gas in the garages or about the homes would cause the property owner to lose his insurance, as all residence fire insurance policies carry a clause prohibiting any quantity of gasoline being stored on the premises."

Chief Styron praised Atlantans who called his office yesterday saying those who made the reports were not only doing a patriotic act, but were safeguarding their property and that of their neighbors.

Dorothy Thompson Asks:

Gas! Will Hitler Risk Using It?

So now it may be gas. The Fascists who have initiated the most hideous use of terrible instruments of warfare are suspected—on very good evidence—of planning to add this one to their armory. And Churchill has said that if it is used by the Nazis against the Russians, Britain—with all the possible consequences this entails—will use it against the Germans. So it is now up to Hitler.

Now, let us imagine the considerations that may have been aired in the German general staff. What are their problems? The moment of surprise that was so advantageous to them last spring and that has been, up to now, an indispensable element of Nazi blitz tactics, is lost to them. So the general staff has planned a campaign without surprise, and with the well-known weapons of large tank columns, assisted by airplanes.

But the Russians also have tanks and the air superiority of the Germans is doubtful. And in ten months of war, the Russians have caught on to the tactics of the Nazi war and are prepared for the onslaught. So the offensive can only be decided by a real test of strength—unless one side or the other pulls a new rabbit out of the hat.

An Old Nazi Custom.

Now, if the Nazis could use gas against the Russians, but prevent its use in the western campaign, that would be perfect for them. This is an old Nazi tactic—"localization." It would give the Germans the element of surprise on the eastern front, while humanitarian considerations protected their rear.

The military consequence would be to smash gaps into the Russian lines by poison gas, and to open a way for their tank columns—to unfreeze the present fairly static situation, and begin a new war of movement.

As far as the civilian population of Russia is concerned, gas—if the Nazis use it—could be used to terrify critical points, like Leningrad or Moscow and to break up the morale of guerrillas. But if Hitler could get tolerance that gas be used in armed conflict, but not in total war, he would probably welcome it, for the most important part of his purpose would be achieved.

He has no objection to using extermination weapons against any of the so-called "sub-human races," amongst which he counts all Slavs. Goering, when asked what they would do with the inhabitants of the Ukraine, if they should take that thickly populated territory, said: "We will simply sweep them out." In the Nazi mentality, certain races are just so many bedbugs or cockroaches, whom it is a duty to treat as such.

Reds, British Prepared.

But what about retaliation? If gas war is localized in the east, the advantages are all on the German side and they have their advanced bases for this purpose, deep in Russia. The Russians would have to cross the whole of Poland to get to Germany.

But if it is not localized, there are only disadvantages for Germany. It is obvious that the British are developing air superiority. Germany is densely populated. The Russian population is scattered. And the civilian population in Germany never has been really prepared for this kind of warfare. For this was going to be a nice war for the Germans, in which everybody else suffered the tortures of hell, but the Germans were protected by their magical Fuehrer.

The Russians, who have apprehended for a decade what was going to come, had their "Osoaviakhim"—a society for instructing the whole civilian population what to do in the case of chemical warfare. And the British have been prepared for it from the beginning of the war, although Britain was and is very vulnerable. The British were the only western people where everyone had his gas mask.

Now in this situation, the greatness of Churchill again manifests itself. Churchill is, pre-eminently, the man of courage. And so are the people behind him. He is not susceptible to terrorism. A weaker leader would have gasped and said: "For God's sake, let's confine it to the east. And with that decision, we could all lose the war. And that is what Hitler calculated on."

Miss Clark is one of many who will get down to brass tacks about why she wants to get in the Army. Others don't deny it's because of "the man," but they don't quite affirm it. But with chic Miss Clark it's a clear statement.

"I feel like I'd like to fight side-by-side with somebody," then her eyes danced. "After all he's fighting to help us here at home and we might as well fight alongside him to make it easier for him."

The wives don't think so much of the dependency bill, provided it passes. Frankly they'd rather have a better way of being on Uncle Sam's payroll and they figure the women's army is that choice method. Mrs. Rosalee New, a leader in the Atlanta Filter Center, says that "the filter center's ready," but she is a step ahead. She has a 12-year-old daughter, her husband is closely in line for the draft. But Mrs. New won't wait for the $40 a month from the government. She has everything all planned for her young daughter and she's ready to jump in and do anything she can as soon as the call for 150,000 women comes.

Mrs. D. A. Miles, who also would be in line for the $40 per month, has a curt thanks prepared for Uncle Sam, but she wants to earn her share in the war some other way.

Hopes To Get in Army. "Nothing comes before winning the war," she says, "and I think my spot would be driving an ambulance. Of course, I don't know how—but I could learn."

Mrs. Hugh Agricola Jr., a 20-year-old bride of three months, knows it's just a matter of weeks before the Selective Service Board calls her husband. She works in the cashier's department of a local insurance firm and says she plans to continue that work until her call from the Army comes through. She doesn't think $40 a month would be enough for food and rent and clothes, but supposes she could live on it if she couldn't keep her job or couldn't get in the Army. Her hope is for the Army because she figures "things are looking pretty serious."

About the most enthusiastic woman in Atlanta is Mrs. J. T. Elrod, who has one brother with the caissons in Australia and another in the Air Corps ground crew in New Mexico. She wears the Field Artillery badge and expects her husband to go sometime speech is suppressed. And now look at the reactions, and the light thrown upon the real morale situation in this world. Gas is a direct threat to the Russians. They have distributed a leaflet warning the people gas warfare may begin at any moment. Look at the British. They have accepted this new menace without the slightest panic.

But in Germany Churchill's speech is suppressed. When the foreign correspondents arrived at the propaganda ministry asking for comment, they were sent to the Foreign Office and by them to the War Department, and no one would speak. The German press and medium wave pass over this whole passage of the speech; only the short wave, which cannot be heard in Germany, announces Hitler has no intention to use poison gas.

Well, there is plenty of evidence that he did have the intention; we don't know whether he still has. It is quite possible that when the Nazis see themselves on the skirts they will turn loose all the furies. But weakness will not stop them. "nor international conventions, nor persuasion." Only fear.

But it seems to me that there must be some quiet way of letting the German know that the United States also has a secret weapon of the most startling nature; a weapon which nothing on earth would persuade us to use, unless the Nazis intend to try to bring down the entire structure and remnant of civilization.

RE-EXAM FOR REJECTED.

The 10.6 per cent of registrants rejected for military service because of heart disorders probably will furnish a substantial addition to the armed services after re-examination, Colonel Leonard G. Rowntree, chief of the medical division, announced yesterday.

The U. S. Army Air Forces urgently need every young man in America who can qualify for the New Officers' Training Program. And 100,000 are needed as of today.

NEW SIMPLIFIED REQUIREMENTS

The Army Air Forces have always picked their officer candidates from America's top young men. That always will be so.

But the method of selection has been recently changed to include single and married men in business, industry, high school—as well as in college—who can meet the new simplified requirements for physical and mental fitness.

When accepted and when facilities are ready, you will go into Aviation Cadet training, receive $75 a month with expenses paid.

In less than a year—usually 8 months—you can try for an Officer's Commission—as a Bombardier, a Navigator or a Pilot—"The Three Musketeers of the Air"! And you'll be up there ready to "dish it out" from a big, blunt-nosed bomber or sleek pursuit ship.

Or if you have had the necessary college courses—you can likely win a commission in ground service—in Armament, Communications, Engineering, Meteorology or Photography. This past year approximately 80% of all Aviation Cadets won commissions. So your chances are excellent.

ADVANCEMENT AND PAY

As a Second Lieutenant with the U.S. Army Air Forces, your pay ranges from $183 to $245 a month. Advancement should be rapid because of the tremendous expansion of the Army Air Forces.

After the war—all the brilliant opportunities in commercial aviation await you!

WHAT TO DO NOW

If you want to do some real fighting for America—up there where the eyes of the world are watching... if you want years of solid achievement you wouldn't trade for anything... then there's an honored place waiting for you in the Army Air Forces. And we want you!

For further information... drop in any Army Recruiting and Induction Station listed below for a friendly chat. If you would like to enlist now with one of the Examining Boards, arrangements can be made for you to take your mental and physical examinations the same day.

The sooner you apply, the sooner you will go on the list for immediate training. The wings of vengeance are growing in America's skies. Assure your place now in the greatest air fleet of all time—apply today.

NOTE: Those under 21 years of age will require parents' or guardian's consent. Birth certificates and three letters of recommendation will be required of all applicants.

THREE WAYS TO ENLIST

All Men of 18 to 26 Years (inclusive) who pass their Aviation Cadet examination and apply for immediate Air Cadet training.

1. may enlist as privates in the Army Air Forces (unassigned) and serve there until their turns come for Aviation Cadet training.

2. or they may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and wait until they are ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

3. In addition to the two ways outlined above college men and high school seniors (upon entering college) aged 18 to 26, inclusive, may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and continue their schooling, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic standings.

Upon graduation or withdrawal from college, men will be assigned to active duty at a training center as facilities become available.

If the necessity of war demands, the deferred status in the Army Reserve may be terminated at any time by the Secretary of War.

The new Army Air Forces Enlisted Reserve Plan is part of an over-all Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program shortly to be announced. This program will provide opportunities for college men to enlist in other branches of the Army on a deferred basis and to continue their education through graduation if a satisfactory standard of work is maintained. In case of necessity the Secretary of War shall determine when they may be called to active duty.

Men so enlisted shall have the opportunity of competing for vacancies in officer's candidate schools. This plan has been approved in the belief that continuance of education will develop capacities for leadership. (Reserve enlistment will not alter regulations regarding established R.O.T.C. plans.)

Refugee Philippine President Greeted At Capital by F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—President Manuel Quezon, a refugee from the Philippines, arrived in Washington late today and was welcomed at Union station by President Roosevelt.

Quezon, who remained for weeks with the Filipino and American forces which held out so long against the Japanese on Bataan peninsula and Corregidor, made his way to Australia and then to this country. His wife and three children were with him.

"Mr. President," he exclaimed as he stepped to the side of President Roosevelt.

"So glad to see you and welcome you back to Washington," Mr. Roosevelt replied with a grin and warm hand clasp.

The American President said that he had the former governors and high commissioners to the Philippines for 20 years back on hand as part of the reception committee. They included:

Secretary of War Stimson, Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, Dwight Davis, now head of the Army Specialized Corps; Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, and Francis B. Sayre.

For Saving Quezon

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 13. (P)—Ensign George E. Cox saved the lives of Philippines President Manuel Quezon and his family during a torpedo boat trip through the south Pacific, it was disclosed today upon his arrival here for a civic dinner in his honor.

The 27-year-old hero of torpedo boat attacks on Japanese ships in Subic bay was reluctant to discuss his exploits, brushing them aside as "merely in line of duty."

But a Philippine government citation for a distinguished conduct star disclosed that, during the escape of the Quezons from the islands in a PT boat, two torpedoes shook loose in their tubes due to the rough passage.

Cox left his post behind the wheel and assisted in the release of the torpedoes, the mechanisms of which had been set into action. This act, the citation reads, "saved the persons on board the motor torpedo boat from death."

Timber Group Seeks To Curb Forest Fires

Protest Issued by Forestry Unit on Fund Allocated to South.

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 13.—(P)—The fire protection committee of the Foresters' Association Co-operative petitioned "the commanding officer of this military area by executive order to declare all incendiary fires in the forests to be acts of sabotage and punishable as such."

The committee, meeting here yesterday, also asked "that necessary patrols for the protection of the woods be maintained."

Representatives of the United States Forest Service and of southeastern state services met with the committee, composed of timberland owners in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

The committee meeting was for the purpose of considering steps to protect timberlands, vital to the war effort, from fire. Hampering of highway and railroad travel because of forest fires was also pointed out, together with possible danger to military posts and camps.

Landowners reported, too, that they were handicapped in fighting fires because of inability to buy tractors, trucks, fire-fighting pumps and other equipment. A memorandum to the War Production Board was approved calling attention to the need for priority orders to permit such purchases.

The committee adopted a resolution protesting that only $390,000 of a $5,000,000 federal appropriation for emergency fire protection of forest lands had been allotted in the 11 southeastern states. The resolution complained that less than 10 per cent of the money had been earmarked for this area, comprising one-third of the nation's timberlands.

Building Owners Re-elect F.B. Moore

Fred B. Moore, manager of the Rhodes-Haverty building, was re-elected president of the Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers at the annual meeting held last night at the Capital City Club.

Other officers elected were C. F. Wilkinson, manager of the Chandler building, first vice president; J. I. Gaillard, manager of the Retail Credit building, second vice president; L. A. McKinley, of the Burdett Realty Company, treasurer, and Fred Shaefer, executive secretary.

Elected to the board of directors were M. E. Harkins, of 22 Marietta Street building; Raymond Whitten Company; F. E. Bateman, of the 10 Pryor Street building; G. H. Brodnax Jr., of the Georgia Power Company. Directors elected last year and carried over for another year: W. C. Adamson, of the First National Bank; L. L. Gellerstedt, of the Citizens & Southern National Bank; Dameron Black, of the Trust Company of Georgia; and William T. Healey, of the Healey building.

Enlisted Reserve Corps Is Created by Army

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(P)—The creation of an Army enlisted reserve corps for college students was announced today by the War Department.

Similar to reserves already established by the Navy and the Army air forces, the corps will accept qualified students at universities and colleges, who will be encouraged to complete their educations and then will be eligible for officers' candidate schools.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, now has 4,197 taxis and 4,912 buses.

Cleveland Boy Wants To Fight For Germany

U. S., British Have Best Governments, However, He Says.

CLEVELAND, May 13.—(P)—Donald Kintner, held for the war sabotage shooting of a railroad engineer, today declared he believed the United States and England have the "best government in the world" but added he still would "like to fight for Germany."

Kintner, 20, Cleveland-born graduate of Elyria High school, pleaded guilty before U. S. Commissioner B. D. Nicola to a charge of shooting out train signals and was held to the federal grand jury under $10,000 bond, which he was unable to furnish.

The jury also will act on two other charges of shooting the engineer and destroying signal lights. The three carry maximum penalties of $30,000 fines and 80 years in prison.

Wearing a plaid shirt, the spectacled young defendant appeared without an attorney and without his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Deane S. Kintner, former Clevelanders.

"What did you think you'd accomplish by the shooting?" a reporter asked him.

"I thought if an American-born person did it people would take notice. I'm sorry about the engineer, but you must remember there's a war and 10,000 people are killed every day."

"Are you a Nazi sympathizer?" "No, I believe in a benevolent monarchy for Germany," Kintner said. "And I don't believe in war for America except in case of invasion."

When Kintner was asked what governments he believed were the best in the world, he said: "I think those in the United States and England. I believe in the country of Germany, but not Hitler at the head of it. Hitler is a product of the depression. He should be ready for peace now."

The engineer, shot in the head last week while operating a New York Central train carrying war materials near Elyria, is recovering in a Sandusky hospital.

Broker Fined In Sugar Cases At Gainesville

Joe D. Carter Charged With Violating New Materials Act.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 13.—Judge Robert L. Russell Tuesday in U. S. district court here fined Joe D. Carter, well-known Gainesville broker, $75 on each of 10 counts, and placed him on probation for three years on three counts, following a plea of guilty on May 1 to 13 counts of a 23-count indictment which charged violation of a 1934 raw materials law which requires dealers to report sales of sugar, malt and similar materials and file records of same. Carter paid the fine. Sentence was deferred after the guilty plea until Tuesday.

Carter was charged with failing to report sales of materials covered by the act of distilled spirits, ranging from 400 to 6,700 pounds, whereas the law, known as regulation 17, required that all sales over 300 pounds be reported. The alleged sales were reported as made between May and December, 1941. There was no connection, it was pointed out by Carter's attorney here, between the sales and the question of sugar rationing.

Pale Madeline Webb Identified At Trial by Dead Woman's Kin

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Slim, pale Madeline Webb, 28-year-old model, was dramatically pointed out today by the elderly aunt of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich as the person who had invited Mrs. Reich by telephone to visit her at the Hotel Sutton to meet "my new husband" a few days before Mrs. Reich was found slain.

The Oklahoma-born girl, on trial with Eli Shonbrun, her alleged lover, and John D. Cullen, under charges of first degree murder, seemed about to rise from her chair when Mrs. Reich's aunt, Miss Eliza Evalina Klarmann, stood in front of her and said:

"This is the lady here."

Miss Webb fidgeted in her chair, slumped back, and drank from a glass of water. A court attendant, who had assisted Miss Klarmann from the witness stand to give her a close view of Miss Webb after she had said apologetically "I don't see very far," aided the elderly woman back to the stand.

Jacques Buitenkant, chief defense counsel, protested through-

3 New Shows, Holdover On Screens Here

Varied, High Quality Film Fare Offered This Week.

Three new pictures and one holdover—that's the new bill of fare offered to Atlanta theatergoers this week.

The new films are: "Tortilla Flat," the latest movie story of a John Steinbeck novel, which opens today at Loew's Grand; "True to the Army," a comedy starting today at the Roxy, and "Reap the Wild Wind," hailed as the greatest spectacle in 30 years of picture making by Cecil B. DeMille, which begins tomorrow at the Fox.

The holdover is "The Wife Takes a Flyer," the amusing comedy which delighted capacity audiences last week at the Rialto.

Loew's

Another story from the pen of John Steinbeck, author of "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Of Mice and Men," entitled "Tortilla Flat," opens today at Loew's Grand.

The new Steinbeck story is of simple folk whose home is dubbed the "Paradise of the Pacific," where the girls are never lonely because the boys live to love and love to live.

Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and John Garfield head an exceptionally fine cast which also includes Frank Morgan, Akim Tamiroff, Donald Meek, Allen Jenkins and Henry O'Neill.

Victor Fleming, director of "Gone With the Wind," directs.

Rialto

"The Wife Takes a Flyer," the daffy story of an English flyer, who tries to escape occupied Holland after his plane has crashed up, and of the numerous obstacles thrown in his path by the persistent Germans, is being held over for its second week at the Rialto.

The young RAF pilot (Frankie Trane) unwittingly enters the home of a Dutch "nut" whose wife (Joan Bennett) is seeking a divorce. As the Dutchman is absent, Trane steps into his shoes, literally, and aids Miss Bennett in getting the divorce.

Allyn Joslyn plays the part of a vain and stupid German officer who takes quite a bit of punishment from Trane for the sake of the beautiful Miss Bennett.

Roxy

In keeping with the times, the Roxy presents, starting today, a story of the Army, entitled "True to the Army." But, however true to the times it may be, it is not true to the tradition of the Army, for it is whacky story of comedy, music and other things autonomous with our fighting force.

The picture tells the story of a girl (Judy Canova) who hides in an Army camp where her beau (Jerry Colonna) is stationed. Colonna and his friend (Allan Jones) dress Judy in an Army uniform, cut her hair and try to pass her off as a soldier.

Ann Miller, the lovely young dancing star, also is featured in the film. Miss Miller presents some interesting dance routines.

Fox

"Reap the Wild Wind," the highlight of 30 years of motion picture production by Cecil B. DeMille, who has created many outstanding spectacles for the screen, opens tomorrow at the Fox.

The film, in technicolor, tells a story of the sea and the mysteries held in its depths, with much of

Wife Is Granted Divorce From Dishwashing Mate

Mrs. Margaret Louise Wilson yesterday was granted a first decree of divorce from James W. Wilson, shoe salesman, by Judge Walter C. Hendrix, in Fulton domestic relations court. Mrs. Wilson charged her husband with cruelty.

City Workers Respond To Purchase of Bonds

The 4,456 municipal employees were bond minded yesterday as they began signing up for salary deductions to purchase war bonds. Almost every office and every employee was pondering just how much they could sink in the old sock out of their incomes.

Department heads urged workers to subscribe as liberally as possible. Collection of the subscriptions will begin today and tabulations of the aggregate bought by persons on the city payroll will be made next week.

U. S. Purchases In Canada Gain

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—United States purchases of Canadian merchandise totaled $82,655,000 (Canadian money) in April compared with $42,401,000 in April of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Richardson Starts Registration 'Purge'

First purge of the registration list to be used in the May 27 special election to designate a successor to former Mayor Roy LeCraw, resigned, was begun yesterday by Joe L. Richardson, city clerk and registrar, and his aides.

Catherine the Great Film Now at Emory Theater

The French film, "The Betrayal of Catherine the Great," now playing at the Emory theater, is an historical drama of the intrigue in old Russia in the days when 16-year-old Elizabeth Tarkanova declared herself Empress in place of Catherine II.

"Betrayal" is the tale of Elizabeth and Catherine and of the man they both loved, the suave and experienced Count Orloff.

The dialogue of the picture is in French with English titles, and the film will continue at the Emory theater through today.

Blind Student Third to Finish In Law Exams

McAlister Upshaw Is Third in Class of 93 Graduates.

McAlister Upshaw, blind law student, of 129 Merritts avenue, N. W., was the third of 93 candidates taking the state bar examination in Fulton superior court yesterday to finish answering the long list of questions.

Upshaw took the examination in the chambers of the presiding judge, A. L. Etheridge, who had appointed Sam Lowe Jr. as monitor to read the questions to him. The blind student then typed his answers.

"He is very brilliant," said Dean S. B. Fenster, of the John Marshall Law school, from which Upshaw will graduate third in his class Saturday.

Dean Fenster said Upshaw made his classroom notes in Braille and then had his mother come to the library and read decisions mentioned by the lecturer to him.

Among the 93 taking the examinations were seven women. Four of the candidates were Negroes, one of them a woman.

THEATER CLASSES.

The Group Theater will organize summer classes for students of the drama and others interested in the theater. Courses in eight subjects will be conducted by Hill

Another Ship Sunk In St. Lawrence, Two In Southern Waters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Enemy U-boats, prowling the seaboard along the eastern coast, added three more merchantmen to their list of victims in daring forays into the St. Lawrence river, the Gulf of Mexico and a point just off the Atlantic coast, it was disclosed last night.

In addition, the Navy revealed that 44 survivors, including an eight-man Navy gun crew, of a medium-sized American vessel torpedoed off the West African coast in early April, were landed May 9 at Norfolk, Va.

A small Norwegian freighter, inbound from Central America, was sunk by a sub early last Friday in the Gulf with death of two Norwegian brothers, the Navy reported.

The sinking was the third such in the "American lake" since last week.

Crewmen reported the ship was hit by a single torpedo and sank within three minutes. The sub, said survivors, was freshly painted and bore no marks of identification or camouflage. As the 24 crewmen cleared the sinking ship, the U-boat surfaced and the captain asked, in English, the name, destination and cargo of the doomed freighter, but the information was not given.

The Canadian government in a late afternoon announcement told of the loss of a second ship by a submarine attack in the St. Lawrence. Navy Minister Angus Macdonald informed the house of commons that the sinking was in the same waters as the first, which was announced the day before.

Reports indicated that the 37 or 38 survivors landed came from both ships, and not from the first as originally believed.

Fourteen crew members from one of the ships were reported dead or missing.

A Florida woman, gathering sea shells along the beach, witnessed a daylight attack upon an American merchantman which plunged quickly to the bottom after being holed by a torpedo.

Before the woman could telephone news of the disaster and return to the beach, the bow of the ship was awash. The Navy reported that 22 survivors had been landed and that eight were injured, none seriously. Missing are 15 crew members and two of these are known to have died. All are presumed lost.

Makeshift Rafts Save 22 as Ship Sinks

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., The foresight of the first mate, who put makeshift rafts on an upper deck, was credited with saving 22 lives when an American merchantman plunged quickly to the bottom after being torpedoed in broad daylight four miles off the Atlantic coast, within easy sight of shore.

The Navy announced the sinking today and revealed that 15 members of the crew were missing and presumed to be lost. Two of them, Steward Lewis Ruiz and Engineer William Lewis, were known to have died.

When the ship sank, the rafts floated free and 22 members of the crew clung to them. They were picked up and brought to safety on shore by three fishing boats—two of which put out from the shore when eyewitnesses on

Child-Bride, 14, Jailed in Death Of Husband, 35 Says Ethridge

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., May 13.—(P)—Dryeyed and unmoved by her plight, 14-year-old Mattie Pearl Manning today idled the time away in Hamilton county jail awaiting a preliminary hearing on the charge that she shot and killed her 35-year-old husband.

Jailer John Long said the little, blue-eyed blonde, clad in a blue cotton dress with anklets and clip-ons, would appear before Magistrate Fred Hartman at noon tomorrow. Authorities postponed the hearing, originally scheduled for this afternoon, and moved it to juvenile court.

Mattie Pearl has been charged with first-degree murder, Sheriff Ben A. Creech reported, as a result of the death Sunday of her husband of three months, Daymon W. Manning.

The sheriff said the child-bride, after prolonged questioning, admitted shooting her husband Saturday. The trouble occurred in the farm home of Mattie Pearl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, near Lowland community.

Morgan was taken into custody on a charge of accessory before the fact, Creech said, and will be given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Roy Purkey at the same time his daughter answers the murder charge.

The jailer described Mattie Pearl as "a right nice looking little girl," adding "she's eaten regularly and I haven't seen her shed a tear."

Jailer John Long said the little, blue-eyed blonde, clad in a blue cotton dress with anklets and clip-ons, would appear before Magistrate Fred Hartman at noon tomorrow. Authorities postponed the hearing, originally scheduled for this afternoon, and moved it to juvenile court.

Mattie Pearl has been charged with first-degree murder, Sheriff Ben A. Creech reported, as a result of the death Sunday of her husband of three months, Daymon W. Manning.

The sheriff said the child-bride, after prolonged questioning, admitted shooting her husband Saturday. The trouble occurred in the farm home of Mattie Pearl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, near Lowland community.

Morgan was taken into custody on a charge of accessory before the fact, Creech said, and will be given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Roy Purkey at the same time his daughter answers the murder charge.

The jailer described Mattie Pearl as "a right nice looking little girl," adding "she's eaten regularly and I haven't seen her shed a tear."

South Is Victim Of Exploitation, Says Ethridge

NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—(P)—Mark Ethridge, vice president of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, tonight admonished southern congressmen to think more in terms of economies to save the south from the "ravages of eastern exploitation" of their industrial and commercial institutions.

The south will never have the resources to repair "the ravages of eastern exploitation" until the outside investors in their business "are ready to plough back some of the capital they have drained off," Ethridge told the National Conference of Social Work.

"One reason Fifth Columnists were so successful in Burma was because the people of Burma had little loyalty for the British," he said. "There had been too much exploitation of population."

Charging the south did not have a politician who thought in terms of the people of Burma and "they go up to Washington and become members of the judiciary and foreign relations committees and make eloquent speeches while leaders from other sections are taking our pants off economically."

Ethridge advocated federal intervention for a readjustment in freight rates and said the vastly productive south could never develop industrially as long as the freight rate structure permitted the drawing of raw materials for manufacture in the east "and conversely prevents manufacture into finished products in the south."

War Production Is Streamlined on Nation-Wide Basis

DAYTON, Ohio, May 13.—(AP)—Streamlining of war production on a nation-wide basis by definitely allocating raw material for planes, tanks and guns in place of often meaningless priority ratings has given middle western producers of weapons a shot in the arm.

Mine Explosion Toll Totals 56; Seek 15 Bodies

41 of Dead Taken From West Virginia Shaft by Rescue Crews.

OSAGE, W. Va., May 13.—(AP)—With the bodies of 41 explosion victims recovered and 15 still to be found, rescue workers toiled tonight clearing away debris hiding the remaining men believed to have been trapped in the Christopher Coal Company's big No. 3 mine.

All of the 41 bodies recovered had been identified before nightfall and the company released a list of the 15 they believed buried under falls in the center of the explosion area.

The rescue crews hauled three bodies to the surface yesterday and removed 38 others today to the accompaniment of sobs from grief-stricken widows and children, who stood among the hundreds of spectators around the mine mouth.

The road leading from Morgantown, four miles south, was choked with automobiles again today as throngs of relatives and the curious visited the mine.

Officials expressed themselves as certain there were 15 more bodies in the mine after making an exhaustive check, but all apparently were in the hard-hit third section affected by the blast.

The cause of the explosion still was undetermined. The five rescue crews, working in four-hour shifts, still forced to wear oxygen helmets because of fumes remaining in the affected area of the mine, three miles underground.

Brass checks, lamps and family records were searched during the day as officials sought to determine for certain those who lost their lives.

The check disclosed that Tom Friesen, a loader who had been reported dead, was alive. Eddie Jefferson, a loader whose name was not on the original list of those trapped, was found dead.

One victim, Thomas Cordwell, 50, of Osage, a machinist, left a widow and 13 children.

German Police Clash With Czech Saboteurs

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—An official Czechoslovak spokesman reported today an armed clash had occurred April 30 between Czech coal miners and German police in Kladno, Bohemia, when the miners were discovered moving dynamite to a secret dump for sabotage work. He said one policeman and one miner were reported slain but the explosives dump was not discovered.

THE "DEADHEAD" IS A FIFTH COLUMNIST IN OUR BOOK

When a Taxicab takes a fare out into town, and must come back empty, that's a "Deadhead." It's a rank waste of vital gasoline and rubber, too.

It comes close to treason. Your Taxi driver cannot put his cab away for the Duration. You need it too badly. There are too many vital trips which only the Taxicab can handle. So your Taxi driver, and the folks at the Dispatching Switchboard, can only try to plan the trips to avoid "Deadheads."

In this the Public can help... and does help. A call ahead of time—fifteen minutes or more ahead of time—will enable the Dispatcher to route a loaded Taxi so it picks you up just after it drops someone else in your neighborhood.

Thus one round trip serves two sets of passengers—on one set of tires, and one tank of gasoline. If you will remember the boys at sea in the Gasoline Tanker fleet—you'll remember to call your cab early, instead of at the very last moment.

Although details of the new plan decided upon in Washington are not known exactly in this area, the basic idea of establishing a cross-country production line for all essential war industries has brought widespread approval from manufacturers.

These men told correspondents on the National Association of Manufacturers "production for victory" tour "it is what we have been waiting months for. Now we can really get going on production."

Distribution Problem. The plan, as explained here, is based on a single controlling unit not for production, not for design of war tools, but for distribution of manufacturing materials, such as aluminum, steel, magnesium or copper.

The bigger producers or producers of the most urgently needed weapons, these manufacturers say, often "got in early and got most of the pot." The little fellow was left out, and even if he was turning out small but essential parts, his production dropped behind and delayed the output of the primary industry of which he was a part.

An example cited by one manufacturer concerned a small company hundreds of miles away which made screws used by the bigger firm in constructing airplane motors. These screws were vital to the production of engines but the little firm was unable to get the steel to make them, with the result that the whole motor production plan was slowed down.

Evening Production. "It is not a question now of moving to high speed production," this manufacturer said. "It is a distinct question of evening up the various production items for a single weapon so that they all come out at the same time and together. Then we will pour out more planes, engines, tanks, guns and ships than anybody ever thought of. And then the battle of production will be won."

In the Dayton area, where many phases of war manufacturing are situated producers have been proposing a "metal salvage" campaign inside former commercial plants which now either have been closed down or shifted to war work.

These men say "lying around idle" in many factories are tons of steel, aluminum, copper and bronze which "somebody could use and ought to have."

Rich Loses Neely In City Hall Maze

The Atlanta city hall is a large, puzzling place. This was proved yesterday when Walter H. Rich, Atlanta merchant, "lost" his executive vice president and secretary, Frank H. Neely, among the labyrinthine rooms and corridors of the Municipal building.

Neely and Rich went to the city hall together. Several minutes later Rich appeared at the mayor's office "looking for Frank Neely." Finally the pair were reunited and left after having registered in the gasoline rationing.

Crop Inspectors To Be Increased

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., May 13.—(AP)—The number of inspectors used in the watermelon, peach, and vegetable sections of Georgia will be increased 25 per cent this summer as compared to last year, H. M. Riley said here today before leaving for Macon to supervise the work.

Riley, who is grade supervisor in charge of the Federal-State Inspection Department at the State Citrus Inspection Bureau here, explained that the added men would be needed in Georgia because of a new federal marketing agreement in effect there. A total of 250 will be employed in Georgia and the Carolinas, he declared.

Germans Keeping Gas Masks Ready

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm today quoted the Swedish newspaper "Nya Dagbladet" as saying that Berliners were getting out the gas masks which they had put away.

"Everybody seems to think the next few days will settle the question of a gas war or no gas war," a story from the Berlin correspondent said.

Uncle Sam Now Speaks His Mind On the Length of Women's Nighties

Here's news from the undi-world girls.

And it applies just to those unmentionables associated with the intimacy of one's boudoir.

But that old Eagle-Eye Uncle Sam, who stages parades at a mere drop of the hat, is going to do a little parading himself and peer through closed doors and windows to check up on the gals and their private life.

And Uncle Sammy, who used to know Cousin Abigail, who was a Puritan maid and looked like a member of the parachute troops in her balloon-like nightie, according to the family, is taking this new order in his usual stride now that slips, nighties, pajamas and petticoats are limited as to sweeps and lengths. It all happened because of the new general limitation order, L-116 just issued by the Textile Apparel and Leather Goods Branch of the War Production Board.

All those feminine frills on slips and gowns and what-have-you, will be omitted for strict Puritan simplicity. But the simplicity is as far as it goes in the Puritan manner, for the gals who wore the blue stockings and who thought "bundling" was the prim and proper thing to do, would turn blue all over and blush with shame if they knew their 1942 descendants were to receive orders to snip off their gowns to almost knee length in the new regulations.

But milady will still have some bit of femininity left for her undies, for the chemises, panties, and other small pieces sold in the undergarment department are not affected by the order. And why? Well, take the panties for one thing. They are no longer the full bloomer type which looked like the uniform worn by a member of the 1916 basketball team. The panties, now worn, are usually made to fit so close and so smoothly that they require little more than the strictly necessary amount of materials.

Following on L-85, which limited sweeps and lengths in women's apparel, the measurements for slips and petticoats conform

By YOLANDE GWIN.

The most severe limitations are those which forbid ruffles anywhere below the waistline of any garment, and which remove shadow or double skirt panels on slips. Hems are uniformly reduced to one inch. Nightgowns, like dresses, will no longer be allowed to have balloon, dolman or leg-of-mutton sleeves, and their lengths are limited to 54 inches, for sizes 40 and under, and to 55 inches for larger sizes. The order embraces women's junior misses', teen age, girls' and children's sizes and is accompanied by schedules for each of these, except for pajamas, which omit teen age.

So there you are, gals. Don't feel too badly if your trousseau is shy some frills, and ribbons and extra ruffles. And don't feel too bad about your undies not being as glamorous as you thought they would be, because if you can help win the war by giving up the hem of your gown, or a few extra pleats, what difference does it make?

MY DAY: French Children In Concentration Camps

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Tuesday.—I went to a pleasant dinner last night with my friends, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Taylor, and met some interesting people.

Present were Madame Wellington Koo, Mr. Lattimore, the financial adviser of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Miss Bonney, who has been able to take such remarkable photographs in France since the war, and who told me of the children in the concentration camps.

I cannot bear to think of children behind barbed-wire looking out at a free world—only, of course, the world they live in is not free. We can only hope that out of this period of chaos will come again a free world where children will not starve or be confined against their will.

I evidently made a mistake the other day in not explaining that the New York School for Applied Design is an industrial and a commercial art school with an endowment, and not a charitable institution. I have received a letter of protest and hasten to correct a false impression. I did not intend to convey the idea that I was only speaking of charitable institutions, because civic and educational institutions are finding it just as difficult to get contributions for special needs at the present time.

Only yesterday afternoon a group of people gathered here to discuss the whole question of racial understanding in the world, both now and at the end of the war. In this connection, a number of institutions, doing various kinds of work and needing financial support, came up for discussion.

Bethune-Cookman College, for instance, in Daytona, Fla., finds that it must increase its standards of training if it is to provide acceptable teachers for the south and send out colored workers to other parts of the country. They must have fine training so they can be of real help to their own people and to the cause of better understanding between this minority group and other groups in our own country.

The running expenses will be higher and an endowment fund must be raised, so we hope to acquire new friends, because we feel that this institution is training people who will help us prevent some of the things with which organizations now have to cope. There is the young men's vocational foundation, for instance, and the Willtwey school, where colored and white children who come into children's court must find intelligent training which will keep them out of a state reform school.

Breakfast Is the Weak Spot In the American Diet

By Ida Jean Kain.

The boys in our fighting forces are not complaining. None of the ones I have talked to are. They feel too good to kick!

As one lad put it: "I'd always heard we were supposed to hate going to bed and getting up with the chickens. And we were all expecting to beef about the meals. But since I signed up four months ago I've put on 20 pounds—something I'd never been able to do—and I feel better than I ever have in my life."

If meals high in the protective foods are good for our soldiers, they are just as good for the civilians. It is up to every one of us to voluntarily put ourselves on a program to keep fit—anyway for the duration. We've got to get up in the morning with that lick-the-world feeling. This is a war we have got to win.

We have to work against time and that takes the extra energy that comes only with the right nutrition. If we could make a major shift in our national food habits to include a higher percentage of the protective foods, we could raise our health average almost to optimum within one short year.

Think of what this would mean in health and efficiency. Not only is the feeling of well-being stepped up until a person is roaring to work, but there is an actual extension of the productive years. Instead of being at his peak at 40 a man can be going strong at 50. It isn't more food that is needed, it's more of the right kind of food. We don't need more sugar, starch and fat in our three meals a day, but more protein, minerals and vitamins. These come in the protective foods—milk, eggs, cheese, butter, fresh fruits and vegetables. 100 per cent whole grain bread and cereals or the new enriched variety, and in meats, fish and fowl.

We don't have to make any radical changes in the American dietary. As it stands, breakfast is apt to be the least adequate meal. You can't do a good morning's work on coffee and a sweet roll. You get nothing but starch and stimulation from that breakfast. Leave off the roll and have 100 per cent whole-wheat toast, and add an egg and fruit juice and you've got a balanced meal. And a sandwich, coffee and a sweet roll is lacking in protection. Have a green salad with your sandwich, fresh fruit for dessert and milk for your beverage. The favorite dinner of meat, potato, pie and coffee is nowhere near adequate. To it should be added a green leafy or yellow vegetable, whole grain bread and milk or cheese. If the dessert is the calorie total up too high that's what should be left off. Milk, green vegetables and whole grains are the essential foods missing from the average menus. All the protective foods must be included in the daily dietary if we are to shift into high gear and stay there.

Cold May Be Symptom of Other Illness

By Dr. William Brady.

According to Dr. P. H. Long, writing in Michigan State Medical Society Journal, the degree of "hardness" or "softness" of an individual has nothing to do with susceptibility "colds." The only prophylaxis against "colds" is the avoidance of contact with infected persons. There is no other method.

This wasn't published yesterday, either, but away back in December, 1934.

According to Boyd's "Preventive Medicine," 6th ed., 1940, some respiratory infections, whooping cough and measles, for instance, are readily communicable in the incubation stage, that is, before any symptom develops. In the case of measles the incubation periods from 7 to 18 days, oftenest about two weeks, the period elapsing from the time the patient is infected until the illness develops. Then, after the illness begins nobody can tell until the rash appears what the nature of the illness will be. The rash does not appear for three or four days. Meanwhile what are you going to do about it?

Well, you may call it a "cold" and, if the illness doesn't compel you to give up and go to bed today you may distribute hot samples to all your associates, friends, pupils, teachers, playmates, business partners, guests, customers, patrons, employees, etc., and with full sanction of some health authorities who still insist people have "colds."

On the other hand, if you have a reasonable understanding of the art of keeping well and a decent conscience, you will call it a cold and either retire at once to isolation or, if you will or must keep about

Answer—Nicotinic acid (entity of vitamin B complex) has nothing to do with nicotine. Because of the misunderstanding due to similarity in names, the authorities have discarded the old name and now call this vitamin niacin instead of nicotinic acid.

Hollywood's 'Four Hundred' Begin 1942 With a New Crop of Divorces

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—If the Hays office hadn't much more serious items to worry about, it might start a little hush-hush campaign on that new crop of Hollywood divorces.

In case you haven't noticed, movieland's divorce mill is today grinding more furiously than ever. The Loy-Hornblow "best of friends" separation was No. 6 in the name personality procession for 1942. Also, two other starry unions are reported on the sharp edge and just about ready to roll their troubles into court.

Incidentally, it is high time somebody with a little imagination took over the job of writing statements for these feminine complainers. The public only chuckles nowadays at that "best of friends—he's a grand fellow" line that goes into every one.

Some day a maritally cracked-out movie star is going to make headlines by issuing an honest statement, on this order: "Yes, Doakes and I have decided to call it quits. He's a loathsome bum. I don't know how I've stood him this long. I wish him the worst of luck."

Hedy Lamarr has caught the George Montgomery cowboy spirit. She's just bought a complete riding outfit—her first. When Judy Garland reports to do song recordings she always dresses in her very finest togs—and then takes off her shoes while she sings.

Judges, justice newspaper reporters and photographers are all pretty mad about the burlesque shellacking they get in "Roxie Hart" the Ginger Rogers courtroom drama. Lots of bitter mail is being received at Twentieth Century-Fox.

Donna Reed, M-G-M's newest starlet, is a farm girl—born in Iowa—so what could be more fitting than to make publicity stills of Donna milking a cow. But Donna fooled all the bulb-pressers. She actually milked the cow.

Henry Fonda is so deeply concerned over the costly delay his accident caused "The Magnificent Jerk" that he has offered to refund his salary. The picture has gone on the shelf for two months, but may be resumed earlier if Fonda is able to cancel a commitment at RKO. . . . It wasn't in the script for "The Constant Nymph" company at Warners to see a dame commander of the British empire fall flat on her face in the mud. They saw it nevertheless. Dame May Whitty, the victim, was supposed to have been horseback riding on an outdoor bridge path which had been made into a muddy morass by rain effects. As she dismounted, her foot slipped in the slippery mud—and down she went full length. . . . Filming of Pearl Buck's "Dragon Seed" will bring into action the largest Chinese casting list in existence. When M-G-M made "The Good Earth" it first had to send scouts up and down the Pacific coast to register every likely Chinese person for extra work.

Historic Eton College, England's famed boys' school, is rising in detailed replica on a vacant lot in Culver City. It will serve as the authentic background for scenes in "A Yank At Eton," starring Mickey Rooney. Photographs of the school, both exterior and interior, are guiding workers. Even the landscape is being duplicated.

Martinique

It is to be hoped that negotiations now under way in Martinique may result in peaceful occupation of that French possession in this hemisphere, by the United States. It is essential to our war program that steps be taken at once to forestall possible use of that island as a supply and refueling base for Axis submarines or surface raiders. In the hands of the Axis, Martinique would be a constant and very real threat to our lines of sea communication and to the Panama Canal.

Such use of the island by the Axis must be prevented. By peaceful means if possible, if not, by force. This should be made clear to the Vichy government—in all probability it has already been told them by Secretary Hull.

Vichy, of course, is between the devil and the deep sea on the matter. On the one hand Pierre Laval, the collaborationist quisling of France, would undoubtedly like to make that pitiful nation fight on the side of Germany. But the spirit of the French people as a whole prevents this. The bombings in Paris of recent days demonstrate that the French people realize their only hope for freedom lies in victory for the Allied Nations. And at St. Nazaire, when the British commandos landed, the French there eagerly sprang to help them against the hated Nazis.

Laval may use the Martinique situation, and the British occupation of Madagascar, as excuse to force France into active association with the Axis in the war. If he does, it will be but one more tragedy heaped upon that tragic nation. It may prolong, but cannot affect the outcome of the war.

This government should, without regard to protestations and blusterings from impotent Vichy, take over Martinique promptly—peaceably if possible. If not, by force of arms.

The Battle at Kerch

German comment on the offensive now under way on the Kerch peninsula has been, first, reticent, then too optimistic. It is in contrast to the quiet confidence of the Russian high command.

The impression is strong it is an offensive partly improvised to test the strength of the Kerch defenses and partly designed to disrupt a feared Russian offensive.

The Russians give that same impression when they hint the tables may be turned within the next few days. At the moment the Germans appear to hold the initiative and the advantage. But at the same time it should be kept in mind the Russians have shown an ability to hold fortified positions despite the perfected Nazi technique for their assault.

The Kerch peninsula position of the Russians appears to encompass a 15-mile front about 40 miles west of the city of Kerch which is on the straits between the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov. The position is defensible in depth from land attack. The Russian fleet thus far has held control of the restricted waters near by and this should preclude any strong seaborne flanking movement of the type favored by the Japanese. Strong air support is available from protected bases in the Caucasus across the strait. This means that, unlike Singapore and Bataan, support aircraft for the battle line cannot be deprived of their bases.

In the absence of a concerted German attack toward Rostov, north of the Sea of Azov, the Kerch offensive does not appear to be much more than a feeler operation or an attempt to break up an impending Russian attack, which still could get under way.

$407,000

The United Service Organizations represent, as nearly as any organized activity could, the surroundings of home to the men now in the armed service of their nation at war, as well as to the men who work, far from home, in war industry.

The USO, as it is familiarly called, has done many things for the soldiers of America, since its organization last year. It has established 407 clubhouses and 165 smaller units, located in 269 communities in 43 states. Outside the continental United States it is operating 10 clubhouses in Alaska, Newfoundland, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone, the Caribbean bases, Bermuda. Many more will soon be needed for the overseas forces.

The USO went with the men on maneuvers last August, carrying its services to many small communities which could not meet the sudden need. USO organized and pays for USO-Camp Shows, Inc., through which 24 professional road companies bring free entertainment into Army camps and naval stations.

Aiding troops in transit, USO organized special offices in large city centers, with clubrooms in railway and bus terminals. Mobile units and trained workers bring comfort to the lonely sentries on detached duty, guarding strategic bridges, war factories, airports, etc.

USO is headquarters for the Victory Book Campaign, through which more than 3,000,000 books have been collected for the use of the men in service.

All these activities, and many more, cost money. Last year Americans gave more than $14,000,000 to start the USO program. Now $32,000,000 is needed. A national campaign to raise that sum is under way.

—THE ARMY NEEDS GASOLINE—

The Georgia quota is $407,000. In case you don't know, USO includes welfare and service groups of all types. In its roster is the Y. M. C. A., the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association.

Georgia has been asked for $407,000. That is less than 20 cents from each of us, on a population basis. It is a mighty small price to pay for the privilege of carrying entertainment, care and comfort—a touch of American home life—to the boys overseas and in the training camps on this side.

What's as irritating as a woman on a diet, who sits, like Leon Henderson, and watches you eat?

Seeds of Disaster

The co-operation of every Atlanta should be given Fire Chief C. C. Styron in the fire department's "crackdown" on gasoline hoarders.

This highly dangerous practice must quickly be stopped.

It endangers not only the hoarders but whole neighborhoods.

If your neighbor insists upon keeping gasoline in violation of city ordinances, then you too are being placed in danger of death or injury from explosion or loss of home and possessions from explosion and fire. A 55-gallon drum of gasoline will throw a sheet of flame 100 feet. Fumes can be ignited by the turning on of the ignition switch of an automobile and the explosion is as violent as that of dynamite.

One selfish and careless person can cause a disaster.

If you know of persons storing gasoline, you owe it not only to yourself but to your neighborhood and your city to report it to Chief Styron for action—which the fire department head has promised will be swift and decisive.

Those who have stored gasoline perhaps do not realize the gravity of their action. Now that they have been warned, they owe it to themselves to see it is returned to safe storage in filling stations, all of which are provided with safety devices for the proper storage of the liquid.

Safety figures show the period from 7 to 8 p. m. a dangerous one in traffic, when the cocktail hour crowd collides with the bunch that is late to the first show.

ANESTHETICS FOR CHINA

(From The Fitzgerald Herald.)

The Chinese are asking for anesthetics for their army hospitals. This is a cause which will appeal to everyone who has ever suffered severe pain or undergone an operation, to everyone who has had to have set, delicately and expertly, the broken small bones in wrist or ankle, or have had teeth extracted.

What illness and surgery must have been before anesthetics is difficult for an American to imagine. The patient who has dreaded for weeks the day of the operation, who is given a kindly sedative, moved to the operating room asleep, and wakes gently in his bed hours later, finding to his intense surprise that it is all over—that patient, now recovered, is going to reach for his fountain pen this instant to make a check for United China Relief.

Russian Relief could use a check, too. The Red Cross will distribute benefits where most needed. Designate and apportion as you like. But when you think of men suffering for your freedom and way of life, it will help you, too, to know you are helping them.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

NEW NOTE OF TERROR

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Prime Minister Churchill's warning that Hitler may be on the verge of using poison gas against the Russians sounds a new terrifying note in the war.

That Germany has been making preparations for the use of lethal gas we have known all along, but somehow we had hoped that this last uncivilized act would be spared the world. American observers who were in Germany before we were drawn into the war, brought back well-authenticated reports that the Nazis had thousands of tons of mustard gas stored in underground compartments ready for use.

From British intelligence sources we have been informed, also, that the Germans, for years since the outbreak of the war, have been turning out gas masks in great numbers. It is inconceivable that Hitler would have ordered the lethal production without some intention to use it at one stage or another of the war.

We may judge from Mr. Churchill's statement that the British, too, have engaged in the same productive enterprise. He flatly informed Hitler in his Sunday speech that, if it were ever established that the Nazis are using poison gas against the Russians, the British would not hesitate to resort to the same deadly tactics in air raids on German military objectives. The onus of starting this horrible visitation on the world was put squarely up to the Germans. No move will be made by the British until and unless the Germans act first.

Allied officials are authority for the statement that the Germans were prepared to use poison gas against Poland as early as 1939, but found it unnecessary after their dive bombers, their tanks, Stukas and other mechanized equipment made short order of Polish resistance.

DEFENSIVE WEAPON It might have been used again in France the following year but for the same reason. Poison gas is more of a defensive weapon than offensive. A rapidly advancing army finds it more of a detriment than a help. Some of it is used on the ground, often for days, and contaminates the invading troops.

The Russian campaign, as it has now developed, has offered the first opportunity for its use. The Germans are being held, pushed back in many sections. Russian communiques last week contained the first reports of German experiments with gas in the Crimean area. It was this that caused Mr. Churchill to serve warning that the British would retaliate in kind if the Germans continued.

We may rightfully assume from the Prime Minister's remarks that the British have gone into elaborate preparations for meeting gas with gas if the horrible fumes are ever started on the Nazi side.

REASON FOR TRAINING Thousands of American soldiers they have been given such intensive training in gas protection, also got their answer in Mr. Churchill's speech. We have been no less asleep to the possibilities than the British.

The use of gas has been in the background of American military plans since the outbreak of the war. Although carried out quietly and with little publicity, tremendous emphasis has been given both defensive and offensive training in the use of gas. We have developed some nice tricks of our own, if it ever becomes necessary to employ that type of warfare.

MAKING MASKS On the civilian side, also, we have not been asleep to the possibilities. Millions of orders are already in execution for gas masks which will be distributed to the civilian population in time, despite the bland assumption by most people that our own cities will escape this horrible experience. The government is taking no chance. As for the Army, they are part of the standard equipment.

According to the authorities, the types of gas available for military use are basically the same as those used in the first World War, though there have been some improvements in methods of use. The commonest, and one of the most deadly, is phosgene, or carbonyl chloride. A respiratory irritant, it lends itself to either cloud attacks or use in bombs and shells. One of its most lethal qualities is derived from the fact that its symptoms do not appear until hours after it has been inhaled.

Another potent death potion is trichloroethylene—a 21-letter word meaning a kind of dust or powder—which is capable of use much in the manner of poisons sprayed from planes to kill boll weevils and other insects.

Recently reports have come from abroad that the Germans have perfected a new form of gas said to be capable of paralyzing the senses and leaving its victims numb for hours.

ONLY DETERRENT

There isn't the slightest reason to doubt Hitler would use gas if he thought it were to his advantage to do so. He did not hesitate to turn his dive bombers against defenseless cities during earlier stages of the war. Perhaps the only reason he has not used it is his reluctance against England is the fear of British retaliation against German cities.

It was the Germans who first used poison gas in the last World War. They did so in April, 1915, at Ypres, but gained only a temporary advantage. After that it was used freely on both sides.

Humor In The News.

No matter how tragic the state of the world, no matter how fearful the principal news of the day—the news of battle, strategy and so forth—there are always items which produce a grin. Either the grin of a simple humor or the grin of satire.

Take a couple in your morning paper of yesterday. Both on page one. First was in that story about congress having passed the bill to create a Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, with personnel of 150,000 volunteers for non-combat service, at home and overseas.

Designs and models for the uniforms for these women soldiers have already been completed. But they are under lock and key. The humor was in the statement that the specifications were made by men, and not men who had been engaged in the woman's wear industry either. For it is said they had forgotten to include in the specifications such universal garments of feminine wear as girdles, brassieres, panties and nighties. As to the last item, soldiers sleep either in their underwear or rags.

There'll have to be some special regulations for the sleeping garments in the gals' barracks.

This Is Funny, Too, in a Way. Another amusing item was that about the parole granted by Governor Talmadge to Dan Eidsen, the convicted East Point flogger.

The humor in this story is found in the reasons advanced by the Governor for his act of clemency. Said he: "This will save the county money. It costs money to keep a man in jail, and Eidsen can now go to work for his wife and his children."

Further, remarked the Governor: "It is demoralizing for a man to have to sit around a jail."

How true, how true. But let's carry those reasons for clemency to the logical conclusion. If the cost of jail maintenance is sufficient reason for turning a prisoner loose, we should turn 'em all loose.

For it costs money to keep any man in jail. We could even do away with all jails and prisons. That would save still more money. And the demoralizing argument, likewise, applies to all prisoners. Why be worried about the effect of jail incarceration on one, and not on all. Too, lots of prisoners have wives and children for whom they could be working, if set free.

How About Cover Charges? See where the British Food Ministry has decreed that no restaurant, club, hotel, night club or any place where meals are sold, may charge more than $1 for a single meal and that no meal must consist of more than three courses.

A worthy move, it seems, but not sufficiently specific. For instance, how about cover charges? Under the regulation it is quite legal for a night club, for instance, to charge a dollar for the meal and five bucks for the cover charge.

Or, again, they might hold the meal charge down to the dollar, but added any amount they saw fit for extras, such as coffee, tea, milk, bread, butter, condiments, etc.

It seems to me there are many ways by which the restaurateur who wishes can get around that regulation.

I've Been Wondering. I've been wondering about another angle on our own gasoline rationing system. Does a man have to prove that the school at which he applies for ration card is nearest to his home? If not, what's to prevent him from getting several ration cards, one from each of a number of schools? It seems it would be fearfully difficult to check each motorist and see that he isn't holding half a dozen ration cards, every time he stops at a different filling station to get his fuel.

Youngsters And War. Have received a complaint from an Atlanta woman who doesn't want her name mentioned, because it might arouse the objections of his neighbors. What he complains about is the increase in the ownership and use of air rifles from children.

Caused by the war spirit, no doubt. But my complaint sees added danger for other youngsters in this promiscuous use of air rifles. Says it will be too late to do anything about it after a few children have their eyes shot out.

There is a law against use of air rifles in the city limits. I don't know about it in the county, beyond those limits.

Senate At Fault

NEW YORK, May 13.—For some strange reason, probably psychological, the statements of our house of representatives appear to be held responsible by the public for the absence of any laws to establish legal control of those fabulously rich and powerful political organizations commonly known as labor unions.

The fact is, however, that the lower house has been very spirited in its fight to retain for the national legislature the law-making function assigned to congress in the American system of government. It is the senate which has repeatedly blocked such reforms.

The senate is our reichstag, obedient to the executive and political power of the party leader and in this particular affair the senate is protecting a gigantic political racket which has a total income sufficient to buy all the elections in the country if properly administered and provided the thieves in union office do not steal too much.

The senate is a very arrogant organization, slow to change its policy and indifferent to the will and interest of the people. Senators are contemptuous toward the rabble whose votes put them where they are because they enjoy a much longer term and thus greater job security.

They are much more sensitive concerning their prerogatives than they are about their duties and they gang up together, as members of a rather snooty club, to favor one another at the expense of the governmental system of which they are, at the present writing, a very discreditable unit. They are, in a sense, ambassadors of their respective states at the center of the national government, whereas the congressmen are intimately of the people and much more responsive to the popular will.

Two Bills Smothered The will of the people with regard to rackets and much other corruption in the unions was expressed twice in the lower house in the passage of bills which would have placed responsibility on these irresponsible and, in many ways, criminal power groups. Even Democrats in the lower house voted against the power of the White House and the political terrorism of the unions, but the senate has permitted both bills to be smothered in the committee of labor at the request of the administration.

What did these bills propose? They proposed nothing harmful to the unions, but rather, they were designed to protect rank and file workers and the whole country from the union bosses and to frustrate the obvious design of the President's party to establish a permanent power sub-government, richer in cash wealth than any other interest, and responsible to no authority but obedient to the President as its political protector.

The connection between these unions, whose terrorist practices are well known and comparable to those of Adolf Hitler's Brown Shirts and the governing party has finally been acknowledged by Attorney General Biddle.

And, of course, all members of both houses of congress know the membership of the unions is largely captive and involuntary. Looking back now they can see that the so-called Wagner act, which was not the work of Senator Wagner at all but a party act, was used not so much to enable workers to select their bargaining agents as to drive them into unions and, actually, to make them accept bargaining agents selected for them by the governing party.

The house has tried to break up this gigantic plot to destroy the American form of government and bleed the people of the money with which to pay for their own chains, but the senate has thwarted all attempts by the negative process of killing the bills in committee. Thus, most of the individual senators may escape responsibility for active participation in the betrayal.

In view of the record, the candidates for re-election to the lower house deserve intelligent hearing rather than mass repudiation by the voters. If a congressman did vote for these reforms his vote should be given consideration and the fact should be considered also that the lower house is far superior in the senate in character and political honesty.

By tradition or superstition the senate has always been regarded as the upper house and the people, sometimes instinctively, blame the representatives for failures which are not chargeable to them. Probably the reason is that the lower house is so close to the people, but in this case it cannot be said that congressmen threw their country down.

To My Son Twenty-one years, my child is a man. Twenty-one years since your life began. Filled with laughter and love and joy. It's the light of my life you are, my little boy.

Twenty-one years, the playing must end. Gone is your buddy, gone is your friend. We're facing days filled with horror and dread.

Do you remember, when "Just you and me" Went to the dairy, the sunset to see. Late hours were singing, the flowers in bloom. It was so early to see the blue moon.

Now you are flying, hoping to be Of help to this nation, in which we're free. We love this country, in which we live. Gladly, to save it, our lives we would give.

In time, not too distant, when fighting will cease. When we won the battle and we've won the peace. There'll be the sunset shining there still, in that same pasture, over the hills.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

MAYOR'S RACE

I see where all but one of the candidates for mayor appeared on one platform and spoke, extolling their wares. The race has not yet become very muddy. Now and then the boys seem about to reach down and get up a handful of mud for throwing.

They haven't. The temper of the people isn't set up for mud. The people want facts. They know that city revenues are going to be off and that problem of an unusual and exacting nature are to be faced. It is going to be a very difficult job to be mayor during the progress of a war which is having a restricting influence on many forms of business.

Some of the campaign speeches, as reported, seemed rather dull. They were about things which happened, or were supposed to have happened, two and three and four years ago. That's of no interest. The people want to know what the next mayor is going to do—and if he is competent enough to do something—next month and next year and the next.

We are in a war. The war, within three months, has produced more problems than the entire period of the first World War.

I imagine the candidates who throw mud or who seek to dredge up mud from past campaigns will falter and lose out. The people's faces are looking up demanding to know who is going to lead us through the complexities of the war. And who is able enough to do it.

I am glad I was not at the speaking. The reporter put down what was said and most of it was out of date.

THE RACE QUICKENS The race, the boys tell me, is quickening. There still have been no withdrawals, but at least two are expected. Perhaps more.

No one of the candidates really believes that Mr. Dewey Johnson, the labor candidate, and Mr. Dan Bridges, the police chairman and candidate, will fight it out.

Their alliance has been too close in the past, say the rival candidates, for them to sacrifice one another. Mr. Johnson, they believe, will throw what labor strength he has to Mr. Bridges, or Mr. Bridges will retire and throw what he has to Mr. Johnson.

That continues to be the estimate, although Mr. Bridges and Mr. Johnson deny it. It really is too early for such a decision. Some of Governor Eugene Talmadge's supporters, including one close associate, has been actively behind Mr. Bridges. The Governor urgently was importuned and wisely refused to take any personal part in the race. He would not allow his name to be used officially in any of the campaigning, although this support was asked by at least two candidates. It would not be good politics for the Governor to show any interest in the race and no one yet has accused him of using any bad politics.

The Bridges-Johnson combination, with the rival candidates believing one will withdraw for the other about one week before the election, continues to be regarded as possessing considerable strength.

Each of the other candidates names himself first and W. B. Harfield next. This would seem to indicate something. Most active seems to be Mr. Howard Haire, whose voice sounds ceaselessly up and down the streets.

At any rate, the pace is quickening.

And Atlanta citizens ought to be trying to select the most experienced, able man to manage the affairs of this city. It will need all of that.

GOVERNOR'S RACE The state's gubernatorial primary, scheduled September 9, also finds the candidates looking for suitable issues.

Governor Talmadge, I am sure, realizes this cannot be a "red gallop" primary. The world is thinking about the war. The problems of war, of sons in the service, of business, of revenue, are compelling to make the outlooks of people different—entirely different.

Mud-slinging isn't going to get very far.

The usual so-called "issues" aren't going to mean much. The county politicians have a tremendous influence in Georgia elections—especially in the smaller counties and they make up the majority.

They are concerned about revenue. To keep themselves going they must have revenue.

They are going to be panting after something which will bring them in some money. The Ed Rivers' homestead exemption law, a good one for the small farmer and householder, can't be recalled even though the county politicians wish it could.

There must be some way found to create interest. It is to the benefit of the Governor, of course, to keep things as quiet as he can as long as he can. He would have an easier time in a short campaign.

Mr. Ellis Arnall already is campaigning.

Mr. Columbus Roberts was expected to enter the race Saturday night. And may, if not, he surely will enter by the end of this month or early in June. Saturday night still is the best bet. He, too, must know that if Talmadge is to be headed at all, he must get started.

But the issue—that puzzles them all.

Men No Longer Offer Sacrifices to a Tiger Who Kills Their Children

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Our Revolutionary heroes had no uniforms when the fight began; and until their wisdom was overruled by military experts, they fired from the shelter of stone walls and trees. They were fighting for liberty; they knew nothing about the nice rules of warfare; and their only concern was to kill a tyrant's soldiers.

Under Nazi rules they would not be considered heroes. They would be called snipers and rebels, and they would be shown no mercy.

When the Nazis entered Yugoslavia, they conquered the land but not the people. Many soldiers and young civilians escaped to the mountains and kept on fighting. They struck hard and often, usually at night, and the conquerors never were able to feel secure.

Then the Nazis said: "We conquered your land by the legal rules of warfare, and now we are your lawful rulers. It is lawful for us to steal your machinery and food stores and crops, and to make you work for starvation wages to help us destroy your friends; but if you resist or oppose us, you are outlaws and will be shot."

But men cannot be shot until they are caught; and when the Serbs struck again and remained uncaught, the Nazis made a new legal rule.

"Since we cannot catch soldiers," said they, "we shall round up helpless civilians and

PAY FOR AUTO RIDES WITH WAR STAMPS.

Editor, Constitution: I don't want to propose this, but don't you think that it would be in order to pick up passengers with your automobile on a basis that those who receive this courtesy would show their appreciation? It occurred to me that we could do two things:

We could buy War Savings Stamps, such as the 10c or the 25c, and give these to the drivers, which they in turn, if they did not want to keep them, could turn over to the Red Cross or the Atlanta Community Fund.

I think if this would take place throughout the country, it would make those who ride feel that they are not under obligation, and it would encourage people to become more democratic. Personally, I think that many of us miss the contacts we used to get in riding the streetcar. ARMAND MAY, Atlanta.

U. S. FOREST SERVICE THANKS CONSTITUTION.

Editor, Constitution: I want to take this opportunity to thank The Constitution for the splendid cooperation it gave during the recent acute fire danger season on the national forests in the southern Appalachians.

Due to the prolonged dry period and the shortage of manpower, the Forest Service was faced with the greatest problem it has had in recent years. These fires came at an especially bad time because the national forests are playing an unusually important role in the production of forest products for war needs, and in the protection of watersheds whose streams are producing electric power.

The prevention of forest fires in the south is primarily a matter of educating the public since about 95 per cent of the fires are man caused, either through carelessness or deliberate intention. The publicity The Constitution gave the fire situation was of great help to the Forest Service which has had many occasions in the past years to be grateful to your paper for its support and co-operation.

I wish also to express my appreciation for the fine work done by William Key.

JOSEPH C. KIRCHER, Regional Forester, By H. O. Stabler, Acting, Atlanta.

Dudley Glass

As gasoline and tire restrictions begin to bear down hard on a patriotic but nevertheless suffering public we may expect street cars, buses and trackless trolleys to be so jammed that nobody but a skilled sardine packer can squeeze the passengers in. One hope remains—that sugar rationing may so reduce the embonpoint of many masculine and feminine passengers that standing room will be available for five standees where only four could stand before this enforced dieting.

Next thing we'll hear will be bitter complaints about the power company. Why doesn't it put on more buses, more trolley cars, more everything?

I've had occasion to chat with officials and plain workers of our transportation system and can testify the company is doing the best it knows how—and to quote from a tombstone in Tombstone, Ariz., "He did his damndest—angels could do no more."

"Buy more buses, more street cars," suggests an indignant standee.

He could draw a nice fat salary from the power company as purchasing agent—if he could buy 'em and get 'em delivered. The company has bought all the buses and trolley cars it could. They were darn few.

So, at the company's barns and repair shops the mechanics are digging into the graveyards, resurrecting vehicles considered dead and gone and fit only for junk. They are fixing them up and putting them into service and trying to keep them rolling.

My fear is that some of that antiquated junk, once it gets going on the streets, may cause visitors to turn up their noses at Atlanta's street car system. "That old stuff? It looks like a 1912 horseless carriage!" Folk who travel all over the country have told me that Atlanta is right out in front as to public transportation service. Modern equipment, well maintained. I know our street cars have long looked better than those in New York, where a few surface cars remain, and of Chicago and other cities I have visited.

So, if we are forced to look at and ride in a resurrected ghost on wheels I'll emit no loud howls. It won't last always.

"He did his damndest. Angels could do no more."

In Kindergarten

Live long enough and your hopes will be fulfilled—maybe. After hearing of all the fun my youngsters had in kindergarten I had long regretted they hadn't been invented when I was ready to prepare for the first grade. At least, there was none in my town.

But I went to kindergarten Tuesday—for a brief stay. It was at the Spring street school, where I was registering for gasoline rationing. Teacher met me at the front door, handed me a blank and ushered me into a school room where I could fill it out, with appropriate perjury.

Inside the room I suddenly grew to be ten feet tall. Or thought I had. Then I perceived that the tables were about 20 inches high and the chairs were built for midgets. There was a slide—for sliding—in one corner and various infantile play apparatus scattered around.

Other six-footers were doing the best they could on the baby chairs and tables, so I thought I could get along. Which I did. There was no long line, no waiting. I was in and out of the building in ten minutes, with my ration card.

By the way, I lost an argument the night before. About the pronunciation of ration. "We looked it up in our home dictionary and it gave 'ray-shun' as correct. The office dictionary gave 'ray-shun' as first place and 'rash-un' as second choice. The word seems to derive from 'ratio'."

However, that may be, I was raised in a region where the farm hands drew their "rash-un" every week. They wouldn't have known how to apply for "ray-shuns." I'm afraid it will be "rash-un" for me throughout the duration.

Army, Navy Need 13,500 Dentists

NEW YORK, May 13.—(P)—The Army and Navy need 13,500 dentists, a government official said today, and they must be drawn immediately from the 71,500 dentists now practicing in the nation.

"The present ratio in the Army of three dentists to 2,000 men will probably be changed to one to every 500 men," said Commander C. Raymond Wells, chief dental officer, medical division of the selective service system. "Therefore, on the basis of an army of 5,000,000, it will need 10,000 dentists."

"The Navy, on a basis of 1,000,000 men, will need 2,000. In addition, some 1,700 dentists will be needed for administrative posts."

"TAKE GOOD CARE OF THE THINGS YOU HAVE"

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR Electric Iron..

MAKE IT SERVE BETTER—LAST LONGER

BAD

If your iron is left connected when not in use, electricity is wasted and the heating element gets unnecessary wear.

GOOD

Disconnect your iron when not actually using it. This saves electricity and reduces wear on the heating element.

Electrical appliances contain materials vital to war production. That's why most of them are no longer being manufactured. So it's important that everyone take good care of their appliances, thus putting off the day when they'll need replacement or repairs. Here are a few suggestions for the care of your electric iron which will lengthen its life and also conserve electricity.

- Keep the bottom of the iron clean. Wait until the iron is cool, then wipe off with a damp cloth. If necessary, use soapuds or mild scouring powder. Wipe with a clean damp cloth afterwards. Never immerse iron in water.
- Avoid ironing over buttons, hooks, zippers or other hard articles.
- Rub the bottom of your iron once a month with a good grade of paraffin or beeswax. Wipe off on paper or cloth.
- Be sure the iron is perfectly cold before putting it away.
- Starch that has stuck to the bottom of the iron can be quickly removed by sprinkling some salt on a newspaper and running the iron over it.

Don't allow cord to become kinked or twisted. Kinks cause unnatural wear on the cord and shorten its life. Keep the cord away from the hot iron. Heat will ruin the rubber insulation.

If your iron is non-automatic, disconnect it when hot enough for ironing. Reconnect it often as necessary while ironing to maintain proper heat. This conserves electricity and reduces wear. Automatic irons cut on and off by themselves and do not require this attention.

Our Home Service Representatives are anxious to help you make all of your electrical appliances last longer, serve better, use less electricity. One of them will probably call on you soon. In the meantime, you'll find quick, ready help in the booklet we offer—

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

REMEMBER THE ALAMO. Providence permitting, Mrs. Newton and I will join friends from the Atlantic seaboard this morning for the journey to San Antonio to attend the 87th session of the Southern Baptist convention which begins Saturday morning, continuing through next Wednesday noon. We will ride the Southern-orator to New Orleans today, and the Southern Pacific's convention special out of New Orleans tonight, arriving in San Antonio tomorrow afternoon, 2 o'clock.

A little boy asked me Sunday, when he read in our bulletin that we were going to San Antonio, if I would go by and take another look at the Alamo for him. I told him I would. He said that he had been reading about the Alamo in history books, and he fully intended some day to see it. I hope his wish may come true. It is a good sign for the future when the boys and girls of today are taught to remember the Alamo. I shall never forget my first visit to the Alamo. It does something to you. Sure, I will go to the Alamo several times, I hope, during our brief stay in San Antonio.

And there are other places of interest in San Antonio. My friend, Dr. Perry Webb, pastor of the First Baptist church of San Antonio, writes:

"Girded by tree-covered hills, through whose fertile valleys run crystal streams; combining in its architecture the lure of the historic past with the designs of the progressive present; made lovely by the romantic river that winds through the business section and from which the city takes its name; adorned with innumerable parks, and made illustrious by the famed Alamo—San Antonio is beautiful for situation."

When you get to San Antonio, you are pretty well into Texas, perhaps far enough to join in singing, "Deep in the Heart of Texas." My friend, Dave Cheavans, (P) state editor in Texas, writes me that they are putting on the big pot and skillet, and that all of us who are fortunate enough to make the trip may expect really big doings. Having been down there before, and knowing something of this man Cheavans' idea of what constitutes big doings, I am looking forward to one grand time.

We will be in New Orleans for supper tonight, which means something itself; and Dave writes that they have some new dishes in San Antonio. He doesn't say what, but it is enough that he knows about these novel menus. They take time to eat down there, and they have a way of throwing a dash of onion and sauce in their pots that is different from our eastern ways of cooking. All of which whets one's appetite by way of expectation.

unofficial news, you'll check up on your coal supply and fill your bins now. Or, at least, put in order for early delivery.

As in gasoline, the problem is not of basic supply but of transportation. There is plenty of coal in the mines and the miners are getting it out.

Atlanta dealers just now could buy enough coal—and, perhaps have—to supply next winter's needs. But where can they store it?

Coal is bulky. It isn't as perishable as potatoes or lettuce, though it does deteriorate to some extent after long storage in open air. Sure, I will go to the Alamo several times, I hope, during our brief stay in San Antonio.

Coal doesn't lend itself to long hauls, say from the Kentucky mines—by truck. It is strictly a railroad freight commodity.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

School Training The foreword in the booklet reads: "The Fulton county school system has been able to adopt for the 1941-42 school year, a comprehensive athletic program through the generosity of The Atlanta Constitution. This program will provide physical training for all students."

We're proud of that athletic program and the great work done by Director John Lewis. It was the first co-ordinated school athletic program ever undertaken, and such was the response that virtually 50 per cent of Fulton county high school students participated.

Our program was designed for the bulk of the student body, not the chosen few who are so blessed that they can make the major sports teams. Our program was designed to develop boys and girls to the point where they might, if they so desired, have a better chance to make these teams.

But, mainly, the purpose we had in mind was the development of young bodies with health as the basis of it.

It was a highly successful program due, in large part, to the splendid work of Director Lewis. It is quite a tribute, indeed, to acknowledge participation of half the school system's student body.

And it was a brand-new program. There are unlimited possibilities for next year.

Vast Benefits In promoting a Hale Atlanta program a year before, there was so much talk about Hale-America The Constitution and the Fulton county school system now realize the vast benefits.

Youngsters were graded on a point system in the various athletic events, and out of the rank and file of participants have come the top girl and boy athlete, as well as the winning and runner-up schools, together with 49 medal-winning and 75 certificate-of-award athletes.

The program was climaxed by a field day at Russell High, and winners will receive their awards at a banquet tomorrow night at the Ansley. Officials of the school system and The Constitution will meet with them.

North Fulton takes top honors among the county schools, with Hapeville as runner-up.

Winning athletes are Ralph Morris and Mary Jane Hollis.

They'll receive handsome trophies, while the 49 honor athletes will be given gold medals and certificates. To 75 other award athletes certificates will be given at their respective schools.

We expect response to next year's program to double awards.

Barons Tally Five in Sixth For 6-3 Win

Matuzak Baffles Atlanta; Browne Homers With Two On in 9th.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor. Harry Matuzak, who failed in a relief role night before last, came back with a rare assortment of stuff last night to pitch the Birmingham Barons into an even break so far in the series. The score was 6 to 3.

Earle Browne broke up a shut-out for the Slagtown Greek, who had an answer for his ineffectiveness of the previous night, and Matuzak was taken out of the game for a relief pitcher, Cotton Hill, who got the side out with little trouble.

Browne socked a three-run homer at Matuzak's expense, but it didn't detract from the fact that Harry allowed only three hits in eight innings.

He weakened a bit in the ninth, walking the first two men and yielding a homer to Browne, and Hill pitched effectively to retire the side.

MILLER IS VICTIM.

Larry Miller was the victim of a five-run Baron rally in the sixth and allowed a sixth run when Harrington homered in the ninth. The Crackers got a total of six hits in all, while Miller gave up 11 to the Barons. Matuzak, himself, set the pace in the hitting with a total of three.

Tonight's game will be played for the benefit of the Red Cross. One of the finest crowds of the season is expected. Proceeds will be used for the blood bank.

For five innings last night the game was one of the fastest of the season, being played in less than an hour, and, in spite of a big Baron rally in the sixth, the entire game went only an hour and 40 minutes.

In the absence of Umpire Parks, who is away because of an accident in his family, Claude Bond worked the bases.

FIVE RUNS.

There was nothing doing for five innings, but in the sixth the Barons made up for it all. A big rally produced five runs. Nothing really happened until only one man was out. Conway led off the inning with a single, Gamble sacrificed and Harrington walked.

Polly made it two out by flying to right. The Barons then unloaded on Miller with five successive hits. Dejan singled, Goldstein tripled, and Castle, Riddle and Matuzak hit one-baggers accounting for all the scoring.

In the ninth inning Harrington increased the Baron lead by smacking a home run over the right field fence.

The Crackers had been held in check by Matuzak, but broke loose in the last of the ninth and scored three runs in a rally which fell short. Thomassie and Letchase, then Browne hit a home run. Waddell singled and Hill reared Matuzak on the mound for the Barons. Hill was able to get the side out without any further damage.

Baseball Here In New Danger After Rationing

Earl Mann Ponders Possible Result on Attendance.

By The Associated Press. And what about the gasoline-conscious baseball fan, when he adds up his allotment of three gallons a week?

That's the question giving minor league baseball operators a collective headache today—and nobody knows the answer, yet.

President Earl Mann, of the Atlanta Crackers, only Southern Association team in the rationing area, said he expected fans would have to reach Ponce de Leon Park by foot or by street car, unless they are willing to use allotted gasoline.

"We just don't know what it'll do to us," he said. "The Georgia Power Company has guaranteed us they'll have plenty of streetcars running to the park. We start our games at 8:30 o'clock, and the most double-header is over before midnight. Since people generally go to work at 8:30 or 9 a. m., they won't mind getting home a few minutes late."

At Macon, Ga., however, The Telegraph said President Roy C. Williams, of the Macon Peaches, feared his club would be unable to maintain its power company franchise unless the power company extends its bus line to Luther Williams Park. Citing gasoline rationing and the continued tightening of the fire shortage, Williams expressed concern lest attendance drop below the minimum required for operating expenses. The power company previously informed Williams that wartime conditions would make it impossible to extend the bus line at this time.

Major Trammell Scott, president of the Southern Association, said crowds generally were smaller, particularly week-days. Chattanooga, Little Rock and New Orleans have been the only clubs showing better early attendance than 1941. Atlanta, Earl Mann reported, has had Sunday crowds of 5,000 and 6,000, against 10,000 for the same weekends a year ago.

Cafe and Dixie Steel Win To Stay Tied for Lead

Western Auto Routs Rogers To Remain Unbeaten In Twilight Loop; Railway, Arrow Cop.

Central Cafe and Dixie Steel continued at each other's throats in the race for the City League title as both teams won yesterday to remain in a tie for the loop leadership.

Aided by a seven-run outburst in the fifth and another four-run spurge in the sixth, Dixie Steel blanked the Fulton Bag nine, 14-0, behind Crain's eight-hit hurling. J. D. Patterson paced the Steelmen's 18-hit assault on Lazenby and Moreland with three safeties. Simon-ton, Lewis, Vanzant and Stevens each had two each for the winners.

Crain connected for a home run; Carlton Lewis had a pair of three-baggers and McQuaig, Campbell and Shack Patterson hit doubles. Fowler led the losers at the plate with three singles.

Lefty Bennett turned in a four-hit job as Central Cafe thumped last-place Clarkdale, 5 to 3. Brown and Clonts led the winners with two safeties each. Bennett had a shutout until the visitors pushed over a tally in the eighth and then scored two more in the ninth.

Georgia Lakes Reopen To Angling Tomorrow

Power Company Waters and Norris Lake To Resume Schedule After Closed Period.

By JOHN MARTIN. The in-and-out fishing season in lakes and ponds of certain and uncertain classification will reopen tomorrow just as the gas rationing law ties most fishermen to a bank in their backyard.

The Georgia Power Company lakes, over 100 miles from Atlanta, will be open to fishing for the first time since April 15, when the Wildlife Division closed them, and thus spawn a general disturbance throughout the state.

Lakes of doubtful classification, and owners who have operated them without knowing whether they were violating the law, likewise are expected to be open. Warm water streams, however, are not affected and will remain closed until June 1.

Only three lakes, Norris, Rockaway and Forrest or Watson's, were ordered since April 15, when the Wildlife Division closed them, action was based on the closing of the power lakes, fishing in them is expected to be resumed tomorrow. Fishing in Forrest has never ceased and Lake Arabia, in the same vicinity, was never molested by wildlife rangers.

H. C. Norris announced yesterday that he would reopen Norris lake, which is near Lithonia. It has been closed since April 30 and many sportsmen have been deprived of fishing in their favorite bass, bream and crappie waters.

Norris is the outstanding victim of the discriminatory tactics employed by the Wildlife Division. He was deprived of revenue for over two weeks right in the middle of the most lucrative period. His lake was closed while others of the same character were allowed to be fished. The cooperative spirit, although costly, further established him as a leader in the movement in Georgia to provide more lakes and better fishing against trying odds and discouragement by the very state agency whose duty it is to produce, not hinder, improved fishing conditions.

Reopening of the power lakes is considered by fishermen and other observers as a belated appeasement gesture. It comes too late for most habitual anglers from this section to capitalize on. The ban on fishing in Norris Lake came only after a story in this paper challenged the Wildlife Division to enforce the law with equality. This was never done.

Actions of the Wildlife Division further indicated the confusion and lack of confidence which has marked its operations under the political system that has so long kept Georgia's wildlife squarely under the guillotine.

Scribe's Hole-in-One Makes Wire Quickly. TOPEKA, Kan., May 13. (AP)—Cliff Stratton, Washington correspondent for the Topeka Capital, wasted little time filing this story. Stratton chalked up his second hole-in-one on a 225-yard hole of the East Potomac golf course in Washington. Representatives William Lambertson, of Kansas, Bartel Jorkman and Ray Woodruff, of Michigan, were his witnesses.

Landis Extends Limit Deadline Until May 25 CHICAGO, May 13. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis today notified the American and National Leagues that the player limit deadline has been extended to May 25 as a war measure.

Normally the limit for cutting player squads to 25 men would have become effective at midnight tonight, one month after the opening of the season.

Landis is in the hospital fighting off a chest cold. Will Harridge, president of the American League, said the extension was necessary because of the large number of players up for Army call.

"Some of our clubs," Harridge explained, "face a tough situation with players called up for examination for military duty. Their status might not be determined for another week. Meanwhile, if we released players to observe the deadline rule and some of the active players were taken for military service, clubs would find themselves short-handed."

Harridge said he conferred with Ford Frick, president of the National League, by long-distance telephone this morning and the two agreed to ask Commissioner Landis for an extension. The commissioner readily gave his consent.

Lookouts' Stadium Damaged by Fire CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 13. (AP)—A fire early today completely destroyed the entire covered bleachers along the leftfield line of Engel stadium, home of the Chattanooga Lookouts, causing estimated damage which club attaches said was only partially covered by insurance.

One of the heaviest losses was that of the huge canvas field cover which under wartime conditions can not be replaced. The cover was stored under the bleachers.

Wednesday night's second tilt with New Orleans was postponed, said Club President Joe Engel, because of the city and pending his return other officials declined to set any specific figure for the loss. They said they could not tell how the blaze started.

Suggs Is Guest Of Rotary Club Louise Suggs, Lithia Springs' gift to gold and one of the south's outstanding women golfers, will be honored at a luncheon this afternoon in Austell by members of the Austell-Clarkdale Rotary Club. The luncheon will be held at 1 o'clock.

W. R. Belden, manager of the Clark Thread Company, will be the principal speaker. He will give a brief review of Miss Suggs' accomplishments on the links, including her winning of the Southern Women's title last year and the Georgia championship in 1940.

Minors Granted Extension, Too DURHAM, N. C., May 13. (AP)—W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, today granted an extension of 10 days to all minor league clubs for reducing their rosters to the normal player limits.

Class AA, A-1 and A clubs under the rules are required to reduce to their normal player limits 30 days after the opening of the season. They now have 40. Class B, C and D clubs, normally paring their rosters 20 days after the season opener, now have 30 days.

Bramham said the extension was permitted because of the entry of some players into the armed services, and was designed to aid clubs so affected by permitting them to carry replacements longer than usual.

I've been back at school registering for sugar, gasoline and spare tires.

If they send me back once more I'm going to bring a big red apple for the teacher. And I hope there's a worm in it.

I don't own a ferryboat, an outboard motor, a concrete mixer or a United States mail truck. And I'm not a trained nurse, a chiropractor or an osteopath.

So I can't get six gallons of gasoline per week for an old wheezing jalopy that leaks five gallons a day.

If I evade the law I'm eligible for ten years in the clink and $10,000 fine. Why not add another five thousand and make it a national lottery?

JUST NUTS

I ASKED THE BOSS FOR A RAISE AND DO YOU KNOW WHAT HE SAID?

WHO TOLD YOU?

NO!

AS THE MAN TURNED, TARZAN DARTED BEHIND A BUSH.

HE SAW NOW WHO HIS QUARRY WAS. HIS SUSPICIONS WERE CONFIRMED.

BELIEVING HE WAS UNSEEN, THE MAN HURRIED INTO THE BUNGALOW COMPOUND.

AND NOW THE APE-MAN STRODE OUT BOLDLY TO ENCOUNTER THIS SLY VILLAIN!

SCENE: THE STAGE DOOR ENTRANCE OF THE DARKENED THEATER

WHY YOU CRAWLING RAT! GOING TO STEAL MY WIFE AND TAKE MY JOB, EH?

I'VE GOT A PASS KEY. YOU AND I ARE GOING TO DO A LITTLE REHEARSING, VAN DYKE!

I OUGHT TO SEND A BULLET INTO YOUR BRAIN RIGHT ON THIS DARKENED STAGE, BUT I WON'T!

I'M GOING TO LET YOU ENTERTAIN ME FOR A WHILE. I WANT TO LAUGH! LAUGH AS I HAVE NEVER LAUGHED! I WANT TO SEE YOU ACT!

HOW THAT SAHIB WARBUCKS HAS MADE YOU ONE OF US. YOU WILL WISH TO BECOME A FIGHTER WORTHY TO FOLLOW HIM--

SURE--BUT LOOK--TELL ME--ISN'T HE SORT OF OLD, TO BE GOING OUT ON ACTIVE DUTY?

YOU DO NOT KNOW THE SAHIB GENERAL--HE SEEMS A BUSINESS MAN--A MAN OF PEACE--BUT PUNJAB AND I FOLLOW ONLY THAT MAN WHOM WE KNOW TO BE OUR SUPERIOR--

OH, HE'S TOPS! BUT AS A FIGHTING MAN--

PUNJAB, AMONG A NATION OF FIGHTING MEN, IS A MATCH FOR ANY TEN--WHEN AROUSED HE CAN BE A FIEND INCARNATE--

SURE--BUT I'M ASKING ABOUT WARBUCKS--

I HAVE NEVER KNOWN FEAR, SMALL ONE--BUT I HAVE SEEN THE SAHIB IN BATTLE--OF ALL MEN OR BEASTS, I WOULD WISH LEAST TO MEET THE SAHIB, AS AN ENEMY, IN A DARK ALLEY--

HM--M--WE LIVE AND LEARN!

VERY WELL, KAYO, I WILL BUY YOU A SODA.

OKAY, BUT ALL I GOTTA SAY IS, IF YOU EVER GET PINCHED FOR SHOOTIN' SQUIRRELS OUT OF SEASON, YOU CAN PLEAD SELF-DEFENSE, UNCLE WILLIE!

IN OTHER WORDS, YOU'RE NUTS IF YOU THINK MAMIE WONT FIND OUT ABOUT YOU HIRIN' A BEAUTIFUL SECRETARY.

PHOOEY! I, TOO, USED TO KNOW HOW TO RUN EVERYBODY ELSE'S BUSINESS WHEN I WAS YOUR AGE.

WELL, OF COURSE I NEVER KNEWED YOU BACK THEN WHEN YOU WAS AT YOUR BEST.

CINDY, I'M CAPT. RIKER--I SAW SMILIN' JACK YESTERDAY--HE SENT HIS REGARDS--

OH--HE DID--HOW IS HE--WHERE IS HE?

THAT'S A MILITARY SECRET, BUT I CAN SAY I'D HATE TO TRY TO SWIM TO HIM--TO THE FERRYING COMMAND TH' WHOLE WORLD OF NOBLE COMMANDERS--

LIGHTNING BOMBS FLY THOUSANDS OF MILES IN A FEW HOURS!

JACK GAVE ME MONEY TO BUY YOU A GIFT--TH' WARDEN IS ALLOWING IT TO BE PUT IN YOUR CELL--HERE IT IS NOW--

OH! A TELEVISION SET?

YES, JACK HAD ME ARRANGE WITH TH' TELEVISION COMPANY TO BROADCAST YOUR DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE SO YOU CAN SEE TH' WEDDING!

AN' I THOUGHT JACK DIDN'T CARE ANYTHING ABOUT ME?

...HE SAYS HIS JUNK WAS MISTAKEN FOR A FUGITIVE AND SUNK--THE JAPS ARE STILL LOOKING FOR YOU AND THE EXPLOSIVES, RYAN!

SO YOUR CREW WAS LOST--WHY ARE YOU NOT... IN THE CHINESE ARMY?

BUT I WORKED FOR MY COUNTRY, ON NOBLE COMMANDERS!

MY CREW LABORED AS FISHERMEN BY LIGHT OF DAY--AT NIGHT WE SMUGGLED MUCH WAR MATERIAL THROUGH THE JAPANESE COASTAL PATROLS!

WHAT LITTLE HE TELLS OF HIS WORK SOUNDS AUTHENTIC--AND HE SPEAKS THE COMMON DIALECT WITH EASE...

--BUT WE TAKE NO CHANCES... THE JAPANESE ARE CLEVER AT PLANTING SPIES BY SUCH METHODS! WE WILL TEST HIM!

REMOVE HIS SLIPPERS!

HIS FEET ARE WELL FORMED! HE DOES NOT HAVE THE WIDE SPACE BETWEEN THE FIRST AND SECOND TOES USUALLY FOUND IN THE JAPANESE PEASANT GROUP...

YEP... HE'S WORN SHOES AND NOT SANDALS MOST OF HIS LIFE... WHICH MIGHT BE TRUE OF ONE OF THE OFFICER CLASS... YOU'LL HAVE TO TRY AGAIN, BEAUTIFUL!

MAYBE I'M JUST A SOFTY, BUT I FEEL SORRY FOR ANDY--HIS SPIRITS ARE LOWER THAN A SEA-HORSE'S STABLE SINCE THAT BINKELDUNK GUY PROVED OWNERSHIP TO THE RUBY--

BUCK UP, ANDY DEAR! YOU'VE GOT YOUR HEALTH--

--AND THIS DELICIOUS APPLE PIE! OH, YES! HERE'S A LETTER THE MAILMAN BROUGHT!

OH, MIN! A CHECK FOR $50,000!

--YOUR UNCLE BIM HAS PURCHASED THE TIGER TOOTH RUBY FROM ME FOR $500,000. IN RECOGNITION OF YOUR HELP TO ME IN RECOVERING THE JEWEL, I AM ENCLOSING A CHECK FOR 10% OF THE SALE PRICE--YOURS, BRANGWYN BINKELDUNK--

WOW!

SUPERMAN--HELP ME!

COMING!

HOLD YOUR BREATH!

FREEING LOIS, SUPERMAN SENDS HER TO THE RIVER'S EDGE...

State Firemen Here Studying Dousing Bombs

Civilian Defense Angles Stressed in Program at College.

Firefighters are still taking lessons in running up and down ladders, but the main emphasis at the Georgia Fire College this year is on putting out incendiary bombs and the thousand and one other added duties during wartime. The school opened yesterday and will continue through tomorrow, Chief C. C. Styron, of the Atlanta fire department, who is president of the college, said, stressing the civilian defense angles of the program.

"Most of the firemen—some 600 of them—know about rescue work, ventilation and ladders," the chief said, "so they're learning the new duties they have."

The speaker yesterday was Colonel Richard C. Job, of the State Citizens' Defense Committee. He spoke of "Responsibility of State, County and Municipality in Civilian Defense" last night at the auditorium. Other speakers included Chief D. W. Brosnan, of Albany, on "The Fireman's Place in National Defense," and G. F. Sprinkle, protection, on "Automatic Sprinkler Protection."

Films on incendiary bombings in London were shown.

Mrs. Atkinson, Ex-Governor's Widow, Is Dead

Pioneer Inspired Founding of GSCW; Burial Rites Today.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
NEWMAN, Ga., May 13.—Mrs. William Y. Atkinson, 84, widow of former Governor W. Y. Atkinson and one of Georgia's most noted women, died at her residence about noon today, after having been confined to her bed with a broken hip for more than a year.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the graveside in Oak Hill cemetery. The Rev. J. E. Hannah and the Rev. J. W. Veatch will officiate.

Mrs. Atkinson was one of the state's most distinguished residents and during her active life had become known throughout Georgia. The principal source of the admiration and respect she enjoyed was the fact that to her was attributed the inspiration for the founding of the Georgia State College for Women, at Milledgeville, a project made possible largely through her aid and encouragement.

Before her marriage she was Miss Susie Cobb Milton, of Marianna, Fla. She was descended from distinguished southern ancestry, her great-grandfather having been a member of the Continental Congress and having received electoral votes for President of the United States. Her grandfather, John Milton, was governor of Florida and her father was a prominent figure in that state.

During the time her husband was governor of Georgia, Mrs. Atkinson took an active interest in the affairs of the state. When Governor Atkinson was a member of the state legislature she suggested the bill that he introduced creating the Georgia Normal and Industrial School for Girls, now G. S. C. W.

After the death of her husband in 1899, she entered the insurance business and afterward served as postmistress at Newman for 16 years. She was a graduate of Lucy Cobb Institute at Athens, and it was there that she met her future husband.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Lucille A. Baltzell, of Newnan; Mrs. Martin Prather, of Baltimore; Mrs. Loyd Bradford, of Albemarle, N. C.; and one son, William Y. Atkinson, solicitor of the Coweta superior court, of Newnan.

Mrs. Hoheiser Dies Here at 59

She is survived by her husband, H. Hoheiser; a sister, Mrs. H. Regensburg, of New York City; a brother, Joseph, of New York City; and a nephew, Martin, of New York City.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg, with Rabbi Harry H. Epstein and Cantor Jos. Schwartzman officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Whitehead Succumbs Here

Miss Eula Sanford Whitehead, of 1908 Delano drive, N. E., died yesterday at a private hospital after a short illness.

She is survived by two nephews, Wallace Attaway and C. H. Whitehead, and a niece, Mrs. R. L. Smith.

Graveside rites will be held in Oak Hill cemetery at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in Cartersville.

Naval Officers Here Rushed By Enlistments

Recruiting Up 50 Per Cent After Battle in Coral Sea.

The recent victory of the American-Australian fleet in the huge Coral sea battle sent young men pouring into the Navy recruiting offices here.

Not since Pearl Harbor has there been such a rush, Chief Petty Officer Robert Bankston said yesterday.

"Enlistments are up 50 per cent since Saturday," he said, "and every last one of the recruits wants to know when he'll get a crack at those Japs."

A majority of the applicants, Bankston reported, are seeking jobs as apprentice seamen.

Bankston added that another reason for the enlistment increase might be caused by those seeking to avoid the rush at the end of the school year. The Atlanta office has an unlimited quota of enlistments for May, the Navy goal being 1,000,000 on the national front this year.

Majority of enlistments are for the duration, he pointed out, but the Navy also is taking regular applications. Bankston also reported growing interest in the V-2 class for men interested in being aviation mechanics.

U. S. Soldiers Are 'Hot Stuff' In Australia

New Catch Phrase Takes Country Down Under by Storm.

By JOHN LARDNER.
FOR NORTH AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ALLIANCE.
SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, May 13.—(By wireless)—Among the American soldiers in Australia a new catch phrase has taken root and begun to sprout—"Hot stuff coming!"

"Hot stuff coming!" means "gangway!" or "make room for me" and its origin is very simple and nutritious. On one of the ships conveying American troops to Australia, the soldiers waiting on table had a long way to go from the kitchen to the mess and when they were carrying hot dishes of food they began yelling "hot stuff coming!" in order to get the right of way through traffic.

Pretty soon they would yell "hot stuff coming!" even when they were carrying a plate of bread or a pitcher of ice water and the troops took it up jovially in Australia, in camp and in the cities on leave.

An Australian may not know what "hot stuff coming!" means but he knows it signals the approach of an American soldier.

REJECTED—"Oh, How we hate to do this!" thought Chief Specialists Thad Holt, Howard Rutherford and W. P. Moore yesterday when they turned thumbs down on Evelyn Mathis and Latrelle Hoffman, pretty young Atlantans who tried to enlist in the Navy through the local recruiting office. The specialists explained to the lovely young things that although provisions are being made for a Woman's Corps in the Army, the plan does not, as yet, extend to the Navy. Shown, left to right, they are: Miss Mathis, Holt, Miss Hoffman, Rutherford and Moore.

60-Day Freeze Order Put On 'Soft' Lumber

Sales Halted Except for Army, Navy, Ship Board Orders.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—The War Production Board today applied a 60-day freeze order to all sales and deliveries of soft wood construction lumber by large producers, except to fill orders of the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission.

The order, effective immediately, halts producers' sales of about 70 per cent of the country's soft wood lumber output, but does not affect stocks in retail yards, which are estimated to be sufficient to supply defense housing and essential civilian needs during the 60-day period.

The sales prohibition applies particularly to timbers, boards commonly used in building construction and framing items.

Free to move in customary trade channels are all hardwood lumbers and soft wood factory, shop and box lumber.

The producers affected are those whose mills turned out 5,000 feet or more, board measure, in an average 8-hour day's continuous operation during the 90 days preceding issuance of the order.

WPB said the present and anticipated demand situation in construction lumber was a "military secret," but Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson declared the shortage for military cantonments and war plant construction was "critical."

U. S. Destroys Jap Planes in Daylight Raid

Airdrome in Northern Burma Blasted by Americans.

NEW DELHI, India, May 13.—(AP)—A United States Army bombing squadron in a daring daylight raid attacked the Japanese-occupied airdrome at Myitkyina, in far northern Burma, yesterday and set fire to Japanese planes parked on the runways, a communique announced today.

The communique said: "General Brereton's bombers again smashed at the Japanese airdrome May 12, when the Myitkyina airdrome was bombed."

"Hits were observed on parked aircraft, setting them on fire. Runways were cratered by big bombs."

The raid was led by tall, sandy-haired Major Donald M. Keiser, of McComb, Ohio.

This was the first daylight attack and, like all night attacks in the past, was without fighter protection.

The operation again demonstrated effectiveness of the famous American bomb sight, which flyers said could drop a bomb into a flower pot from 35,000 feet.

The raid brought to nine the total announced attacks on the Japanese airmen have been operating here.

Henderson Thanks Georgia Teachers

School teachers of Georgia were thanked by OPA Administrator Leon Henderson yesterday for "their splendid job" in handling the sugar ration registration.

Price Administrator Henderson sent the following telegram to the Governor:

"I would appreciate your conveying the gratitude of the Office of Price Administration to your school superintendents, the principals, the school teachers and the civilian defense workers for the splendid job they did in registering virtually the entire population of the United States for sugar rationing. I personally cannot express my gratitude too deeply for the job that was done. The principal credit, of course, should go to the school teachers because they actually handled the heaviest burden of the job. No other group could have handled the job so efficiently and speedily."
